Great Britain Ready To Lay Down Peace Policy

KING GIVES ROYAL ASSENT TO BILLS

Parliament Hill Ceremonies Make Canadian History

Colorful and Impressive Scenes in Senate Chamber—Staid Halls Echo With Cheers

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, May 19—History was written on Parliament Hill this afternoon when, promptly at 2:56 p.m., E.D.T., Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived to give Royal assent to bills—the first time a British sovereign has performed this act in any parliament since 1854.

A 21-gun salute boomed out over the broad Ottawa River to greet the arrival of Their Majesties on the grounds of Parliament Hill as their carriage wound up the slope through solid throngs of their subjects held back by police and soldiers.

At the main entrance, beneath the Peace Tower, Their Majesties alighted beside a Guard of Honor of Cameron Highlanders drawn up in two red lines across the lawn.

KING PAUSES

At the main door the King paused while the band played the National Anthem. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Senator Dandurand, government leader, greeted Their Majesties and, with the Queen on his right, the King fell in behind the Royal staff and started the slow march to the Senate Chamber.

The crowds murmured approval of the Queen's appearance. An ermine capelet collared in white fox topped her white taffeta crinoline gown. The wide skirts were inset with a band of pale yellow taffeta heavily embroidered with gold sequins. The skirt swished as she walked beside the King, dressed in his scarlet-coated field-marshal's uniform.

DIAMOND TIARA

The blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter, draped from the Queen's shoulder and pinned at her hip with the diamond order, matched the sapphires in her exquisite diamond necklace. She wore a diamond tiara.

The staid halls of parliament echoed with cheers and "hurrahs" as Their Majesties entered the building.

Their Majesties' approach to the hushed senate chamber was announced by a cry of "order," and all within the chamber stood. Preceded by a squad of uniformed aides and led by his

Smiling affectionately, Their Majesties the King and Queen are shown on the observation platform of the Royal train, a few seconds before they left Quebec's Palais Station on their way to Three Rivers and Montreal. Owing to regulations it was difficult to get close-up camera shots of Their Majesties at Quebec. The lower picture, taken on the Plains of Abraham, shows the King and Queen as they viewed the huge gathering of school children there.

R.C.M.P. Stand Guard While Royal Couple Sleep Aboard Train

CALEDONIA SPRINGS, Ont., May 19—The luxurious palace-on-wheels that is the official residence of Their Majesties in Canada rested last night beside the railway station in Caledonia Springs, and the King and Queen slept aboard their train under glittering skies.

For the first time a British monarch was spending the night in the open Canadian countryside. Overhead the northern lights flashed in a brilliant aurora display. Tired from their hectic day in Montreal, the King and Queen may have already been asleep when the Royal train reached its stopping place here, 65 miles east of Ottawa.

Near the cars stood searchlights, like floodlights for a movie set, ready to make any point as light as day.

When the 12-car special rolled to a new, specially-built siding, switches were thrown and spiked. A Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer was assigned to guard each switch.

All night long police guarded the train, walking beats along either side as if on a city street. Further back, at the nearest roads, other police stood guard. The station and its platform were closed to local use.

LIBERALS WIN 26 SEATS IN P.E.I. HOUSE

Administration Headed By Premier Campbell Is Returned

CHARLOTTETOWN, May 19—A tradition-breaking Liberal administration was back in power in Prince Edward Island today with 26 of the Legislature's 30 seats firmly in its grasp on the basis of unofficial returns.

Three districts in which counting of votes had not been completed reported today confirming the election of five Liberals and one Conservative and making the final standing the house 26-4.

CONTINUING MANDATE

It was nearly a quarter century since an administration had been given a continuing mandate by Prince Edward Island voters. Since 1915 it had been traditional that provincial parties—always Liberal and Conservative—should alternate. It fell to youthful Premier

Armaments Delay Delivery Here Of Trolley Busses

Rush of armament manufacture in Great Britain will delay delivery of at least part of the order of six trackless electric trolley busses for Edmonton, it was stated Friday by City Commissioner R. J. Gibb.

The busses were ordered for July delivery from English Electric Co., Ltd. and Leyland Motors, Ltd. but likely will not arrive before September. Meantime overhead wiring is proceeding and paving of the six-mile route likely will begin in June.

Action Seen Soon As Reich Willing Forget Aggression

Premier Chamberlain Denies Anglo-Russian Negotiations Impeded by Ideological Barriers — Britain Desires Reciprocal Arrangements

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, May 19.—Great Britain stands ready to lay down a definite long-range policy for European peace when Germany clearly demonstrates willingness to renounce aggression or the use of force in her relations with other countries.

Prime Minister Chamberlain made this plain in the House of Commons during debate on foreign affairs. He also denied that Anglo-Russian negotiations for inclusion of the Soviet in the Anglo-French anti-aggression bloc were being impeded by ideological barriers.

The Prime Minister declared the British government always had desired reciprocal military arrangements with the Soviet.

"The British government have never desired to ask the Soviet government to do anything which they were not prepared to do themselves," he insisted. "They have always wanted the arrangement to be reciprocal."

The Prime Minister spoke in reply to David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, who demanded speedy conclusion of a pact with Russia, and Clement Attlee, Labor opposition leader, who urged a clear-cut foreign policy.

Mr. Chamberlain admitted the colonial question must form a part of any long-range peace plan, but he added this warning:

"We, in this country, are not prepared to buy these peace terms at the price of concessions which would only lead to further demands."

Mr. Chamberlain declared the German government itself was responsible for a lack of faith in its assertion of non-aggressive intentions. He added:

"If we could have such a renunciation (of aggressive aims), if we could have the conviction that there was no intention of aggression or the further use of force in the relations between Germany and other countries, then I think we would find we would not be backward in stating what is our view of the lines on which we would discuss the terms of permanent peace."

Rain Fails Dampen Welcome Of 6,000 Persons At Station

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, May 19.—Experiencing the first unpleasant weather of their Canadian tour, the King and Queen arrived in Ottawa today at 11 a.m. E.D.T. The Royal couple stepped from their blue and silver Royal train at a temporary station on the southwesterly boundary of the city to the cheers of 6,000 persons as a drizzling rain fell. They were exactly on time.

The first gun of a 21-gun salute boomed as the King stepped from the train, signalling the actual arrival to those on the outskirts of the crowd.

The sun came out just a second at the moment of arrival. The Royal couple, seemingly refreshed after sleeping for the first time on the Royal train, their official residence, at a secret spot somewhere along the line from Montreal, were smiling. They alighted from the rear platform.

The Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir were the first to greet them and warm handshakes were exchanged. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, agriculture minister, and Hon. C. D. Howe, transport minister, the two cabinet ministers not presented at Quebec, next met Their Majesties with their wives.

BOUQUET OF FLOWERS

Mrs. Stanley Lewis, wife of Ottawa's mayor, presented the Queen with a bouquet of flowers as she and her husband were presented by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Then T. E. Ahearn and J. A. Pinard, Ottawa members of parliament, and their wives, met the Royal couple.

His Majesty was wearing a field marshal's uniform — red jacket,

Baby Born As Royalty Passes Her Birthplace

OTTAWA, May 19—Youngest person to attend today's Royal procession and perhaps any other Royal procession was Margaret Rose Paquette. She was born in a boat house just as the King and Queen passed by along the driveway to their state coach.

Mrs. Vincenie Paquette, the mother, despite the expected arrival, was determined not to miss seeing the King and Queen and, accompanied by a sister, went to the boat house on Dow's Lake to see Their Majesties from an upstairs window.

She enjoyed the procession but presented Their Majesties with another subject.

DUBLIN, May 19—Three Canadian ticket holders drew Blue Peter, 75 to 20 favorite, in the drawing for the Irish Hospitals' sweepstake on the Derby, to be run at Epsom next Wednesday.

As usual, owing to the Dominion's lottery law, the names of the ticket holders were not made public and only non-de-plumes were available. The tickets on Blue Peter were listed as follows:

"Fun El Da," having ticket number QL-3858.

"C.C.C.," number WQ-38602.

"Not So Good," number LT-35787.

The holders stand chances to win the first prize of £30,000 ($140,000).

20 DRAW RUNNERS

Twenty other Canadians also drew runners while 53 Dominion ticket holders drew non-runners and qualified for £397 ($1,857) prizes not based on the result of the race.

PRIZE FUND DIVIDED

The prize fund was divided into nine units of £100,000 ($468,000) each. The balance of £56,100 will be given out in the form of 50 cash prizes of £1,122 ($5,250) each.

Second, Third Reading Given Bill In Senate

OTTAWA, May 19—In the presence of diplomats, church and state dignitaries and privy councillors the senate this afternoon gave second and third reading to the government's bill respecting youth training.

LONDON PRESS URGES SOVIET ALLIANCE SOON

Parleys Too Protracted Declares Former Isolationist

LONDON, May 19—The Daily Express (independent) today dropped its traditional isolationist policy and urged an immediate alliance with the Soviet Union, arguing that the "more allies we have the better."

"It is plain that the people want a military alliance with Russia and are disturbed in the delay in getting it," the newspaper said editorially. "They think the conversations are unnecessarily protracted.

"The attitude of the Daily Express is perfectly plain. We are an isolationist newspaper. The Daily Express opposes commitments in eastern Europe. But if commitments are to be made, let us give and take the best guarantees that are going. Now that we have embarked on a policy of alliance, the more allies we have the better. If medicine is good, let us take plenty of doses."

3-Power Plan Soviet Alliance Is Still Sought

By R. D. McMILLAN
British United Press, Exclusive Cable to Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, May 19.—It was learned in diplomatic quarters here that the British government are endeavoring to convince the Soviets to change their decisions regarding the Russian rejection of the British plan for a three-power agreement between Britain, France and Russia.

Both British and French governments firmly believe that collaboration will be eventually evolved. Both Prime Minister Chamberlain, as well as Viscount Halifax still hope Stalin eventually will modify the Soviet terms.

According to the British conception, it is not desirable at the present moment to enter into a military alliance along the lines of the Soviet proposal, namely guaranteeing Soviet Russia and receiving guarantees from her if in excess of the original British desire to safeguard small states against aggression.

Fearing a deadlock, the French have intervened and suggested a compromise, including early staff talks between the three supreme commands of Britain, France and Russia. The French are anxiously watching developments.

The Soviet decision to send Ambassador Ivan Maisky to Geneva instead of a ranking official like Commissar Vladimir Potemkin is considered to be serious.

The present object in the negotiations is to reach a preliminary agreement sufficiently attractive to the Soviets to induce a last minute change of mind on the part of Stalin to have him dispatch Potemkin to Geneva to confer with Halifax as Maisky, being ambassador in London, could hardly bring any new angle into the discussion in Geneva which he has not discussed with Halifax in London.

According to reliable French indications, there is still a hope that at least during the talks which Neonitt Belluis will have with Daladier and Bonnet in Paris on Saturday, a solution can be found which can be transmitted to Moscow.

The government is anxious to ensure that Moscow be appraised of the latest British views in time to discuss the contents of the British reply during the meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva on May 22 where Soviet, French and British representatives will meet.

It is definitely stated in high official circles that the British government desire to clear up a situation which they believe contains no difference in principle but is merely a difference in the method employable.

AGAINST AGGRESSION

"We want to join together in producing a deterrent to such aggression. Russia wants an immediate definite step whereas British prefers to move stage by stage. An indication that Britain is not acting slowly can be found in the speed with which she has upset her entire and age long foreign policy of avoiding 'foreign entanglements' by guaranteeing the integrity of Poland and Rumania," was the summing up given to the British United Press by a high official.

POSSIBLE RELUCTANCE

The British government realize that the Russian counter proposals will probably lead to a general guarantee of small Baltic states. It should be remembered, however, and taken into account, that there might be a possible reluctance on the part of those states to be guaranteed by Russia.

Whitehall is satisfied that the situation is still favorable and anticipates that concrete achievements will result from present negotiations despite temporary hitches.

U.S. MINISTER RECEIVED BY KING GEORGE

His Majesty Accepts Credentials Of Daniel C. Roper

OTTAWA, May 19.—Accepting the credentials of Daniel C. Roper, new United States minister to Canada, the King today asked him to convey "to the President of the United States my sincere thanks for the assurances of his friendship and his good wishes for the happiness and welfare of the Canadian people, which I cordially reciprocate."

In an unprecedented ceremony in the Rideau Hall study of the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, the American minister presented his credentials to the King. It marked the first time in Canadian history that a representative of a foreign government in the dominion made the presentation to the British Sovereign.

In presenting his letters from his government, Mr. Roper said: "The President asks that I convey to Your Majesty the assurances of his friendship and genuine good wishes for the continued happiness and well-being of the Canadian people."

The King replied by also reading a message in which he expressed thanks for President Roosevelt's assurance of U.S. friendship. He added that "the close friendship between my Canadian people and their neighbors makes us look forward to the visit (to the U.S.) with particular pleasure."

It was the first official function for The King in the capital. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as secretary of state for external affairs, witnessed the ceremony with the American legation staff.

Following the presentation, the new minister joined other foreign diplomats in Ottawa at a reception given by The King. The Queen received the ministers' wives.

personal staff. His Majesty and the Queen walked slowly down the red carpeted chamber between the rows of seated dignitaries.

The company walked in two files dividing at the throne and ranging on either side of the King, leading Her Majesty by his left hand, approached the throne.

PAGES ARRANGE TRAIN

At the foot of the throne, His Majesty released his left hand, then turned and assisted Her Majesty to the chair at his side. Then he seated himself while two pages boys arranged the wide gold cloth train of Her Majesty.

Throughout the entrance and seating the most complete silence reigned. Once Their Majesties were seated Major Drew Thompson, gentleman usher of the Black Rod, ordered those present to sit.

Mr. Speaker Foster then ordered the Gentleman Usher to proceed to the Commons chamber and acquaint that assembly that "it is His Majesty's pleasure they attend in this honorable chamber." Bowing three times to the throne the Black Rod departed on his mission.

Headed by Speaker Casgrain, members of the Commons, blackrobed and solemn in comparison to the brilliance of the Upper Chamber, advanced to the rail and ranged about it, their numbers extending far out into the rotunda.

BILLS ASSENTED TO

The seven bills passed by both Commons and Senate, and the supply bill passed only by the Commons, were then filed by the assistant clerk and assented to by the usual formula without His Majesty's voice.

At the conclusion of assent a brief speech was read in both French and English by the King. He spoke slowly in a low clear voice. His Majesty expressed the pleasure of the Queen and himself at their reception and their hopes of seeing much of Canada and its people as well as neighboring United States.

At the conclusion of the French language version of the speech, His Majesty bowed to the Chamber and, headed by Major Milton Gregg, Sergeant-at-Arms, bearing the mace, Speaker Casgrain and his Commons followers departed.

The aides then took up their position and the Royal party moved off down the Chamber and out in the same order in which it entered.

Queen Elizabeth smiled and bowed graciously to the ranks and left as the ladies curtsied and men bowed. There was complete silence in the standing throng.

Text Of King's Speech In Senate

OTTAWA, May 19.—Following is the text of the King's speech in the senate chamber at the ceremony of assent to bills:

Honorable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

I thank you sincerely for your address and for your loyal affection to my throne.

Quebec. The Queen and I deeply appreciate your loyal and affectionate welcome.

I am very happy that my visit to Canada affords me the opportunity of meeting, in parliament assembled, the members of both houses. No ceremony could more completely symbolize the free and equal association of the nations of our Commonwealth. As my father said, on the occasion of his visit, nearly a quarter of a century ago, another, the unity of the British Empire is no longer expressed by the supremacy of the time-honored parliament that sits at Westminster. It finds expression today in the free association of nations enjoying common principles of government, common attachment to ideals of peace and freedom, and bound together by a common allegiance to the crown.

The Queen and I have been deeply touched by the warmth of the welcome accorded us since our arrival in Canada. We are greatly looking forward to visiting each of the provinces, and, before our return, to pay a brief visit to the United States.

It is my earnest hope that my present visit may give my Canadian people a deeper conception of their unity as a nation. I hope also that my visit to the United States will help to maintain the very friendly relations existing between these two great country and the nations of the Commonwealth.

CLOSER FRIENDSHIP

The visits, like the one recently made by the Queen and myself to the continent of Europe, will, we trust, be viewed as an expression of the spirit of our peoples, which seeks ardently for closer friendship and better relations not only with our kith and kin but with the peoples of all nations and races.

Honorable members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

May the blessing of divine providence rest upon your labors and upon my Realm of Canada.

Royalty At Ottawa

cocked hat with a broad blue band across the front of the jacket.

Her Majesty wore a mauve dress with a short jacket, a mauve hat with a bunch of violets and veil, and carried a bouquet of red roses. Twin white fox furs were thrown over her shoulders.

TROOPS ADD COLOR

As the train arrived and the sun came out, mounted police and soldiers threw off their raincoats and great-coats, adding color that had been missing before.

The royal train landau, drawn by four horses, which carried them along an eight-mile route to Rideau Hall, was up as they arrived but when the weather cleared it was put down and they started their drive in full view of the crowd.

The King and Queen came to the capital after a night such as no other British sovereigns in all history ever experienced.

In their blue and silver palace train they slept under the northern lights, glowing and darting like celestial fireworks. The display of aurora was an unusual sight even for Canadians in late May.

As the train was pulling in Her Majesty looked through the window of the last car and waved to the thousands who had come to see and in seeing friends at a station.

After the King had inspected the guard of honor from the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa under Major Harry Sloman and Mayor Lewis had presented members of the Ottawa city council, the party moved off down the driveway at 11.16 a.m.

Five minutes later they were driving through the Experimental farm. Large waving and cheering crowds lined the beautiful driveway through the farm.

TWO POSTILLIONS

Two postillions rode the horses of the carriage, wearing long black coats, white breeches and black silk hats adorned with white cockades. Riding behind Their Majesties were scarlet-coated coachmen.

As they entered the coach neither had any protection for their dress from possible rain but grey carriage robes were placed over their knees.

The Queen stayed under the station canopy out of sight of the crowd while the guard of honor was inspected and the thousands yelled for her appearance and cheered lustily as she arrived.

Several people fainted as those behind pressed forward for a glimpse of Their Majesties.

Liberals Win

Thane Campbell to win a second successive term.

But the Conservative opposition, though holding only four seats on the basis of unofficial returns, took some measure of satisfaction at gaining a voice in the legislature. Not since 1935 had they had a member in the house, for the Liberals swept every seat that year to make the legislature the only one on the continent without an official opposition.

TORY LEADER WINS

Conservative leader W. J. P. MacMillan, premier for two years before the 1935 avalanche, was established definitely as part of the new opposition yesterday when Queen's county running mate, W. A. Stewart, Youthful R. R. Bell, had a bare plurality of one, and the cabinet member he led planned to demand a recount.

A fourth Conservative was leading in one of the two seats that remained in the doubtful column when tabulation ceased in the 3rd King's district late last night. Here H. Francis McPhee, a former minister without portfolio, was leading S. S. Hesslan, speaker of the legislature, by 68 ballots with two of the riding's 11 polls still unreported.

The three Conservative victories took a toll of two of the 44-year-old premier's cabinet ministers, Bell, a young Charlottetown barrister making his bow to politics, nosed out Stanford W. LePage, president of the executive council, for his victory was at the expense of T. W. L. Prowse, minister without portfolio.

France owns three-fifths of the coffee trees in Africa, the remainder belonging to Spain.

THREE ACCUSED WIN DISMISSALS SUPREME COURT

Three persons appearing before Mr. Justice Shepherd on various charges in Supreme Court, criminal division, here Friday morning were all granted dismissals.

Arthur Matasek, charged with having attempted to frame the husband of a woman friend by "planting" liquor in the husband's barn and then letting police know it was there, was discharged when Mr. Justice Shepherd decided "I feel I must give you the benefit of the doubt, but you have had a narrow escape."

Furyk, charged on the same offense, and who gave evidence against Matasek, was discharged when the Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung offered no evidence.

Katie Charchuk was dismissed on charges of attempting to murder and injure her baby daughter. Crown evidence was that she had placed soap in the child's mouth. She explained, however, that she had been told by another woman that soap would be good for the babe. Medical evidence was that she was mentally subnormal.

Katie Charchuk was defended by E. B. Cogswell, K.C., former crown prosecutor. Matasek by Fred Jackson, and Furyk was undefended.

ROYAL VISIT HEADLINED BY FRENCH PRESS

Paris-Midi Stresses Great Strides Made in the Dominion

PARIS, May 19. — All French newspapers Thursday headlined the enthusiastic welcome accorded King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their arrival in Canada.

Wire photos of the King and Queen setting foot on Canadian soil and of Prime Minister Mackenzie King reading the welcoming address were prominently displayed on the front page of Paris-Soir, largest evening newspaper in France.

GREAT STRIDES

Paris-Midi stressed the great strides made in industry and commerce in Canada since the turn of the century.

"Twenty-six years ago when the present King George VI was only young Prince Albert, Canada was a primitive country of lumberjacks and gold prospectors," the special correspondent of the newspaper wrote.

"Today, on debarking in Quebec, the sovereign found a completely transformed Canada, a nation which ranks among the world's leading industrial nations."

The correspondent recalled the enormous sacrifices made by Canada in the Great War and declared warm pro-British and pro-French sentiments were provoked in Canada during the newest period of European tension.

LARGE ARMY

The Paris-Midi journalist quoted a Canadian Legion official in Quebec who declared that Canada could throw a large army into battle in the event of war.

"And these men would not be merely youths of 20 and 30," the legionnaire said. "In Canada we are not old senile men at 40 and 50, and we who fought at Arras and Passchendaele can still fight."

ABERHART URGES PREPARATION FOR FEDERAL ELECTION

CALGARY, May 19.—Only by the new democracy or Social Credit methods could people secure economic and democratic freedom said Premier William Aberhart of Alberta here last night, in urging more than 300 persons to prepare for the next federal election.

"Within the next three months, and not later than the next 14 months, the people of Canada and Alberta will be called upon to make a decision which is vital to their very life," said Mr. Aberhart in the concluding meeting of Social Credit rallies held here this week. "You must decide if you will vote for democratic and economic freedom or for the present financial system and chaos," he added.

The provincial Premier told his audience at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute that "I don't know when the next provincial election is coming."

OTTAWA DEFENCE ESTIMATES VOTED: PEACETIME HIGH

OTTAWA, May 19.—In little more than four hours the House of Commons Thursday voted $57,000,000 to compete the government's defence estimates of $63,000,000, a peacetime record.

The house sailed through most of the detail with little hesitation but that caused by members seeking information from Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of defence.

The unspectacular day saw the public galleries of the house unusually well filled with a constantly changing audience — apparently visitors in the capital for the Royal Visit.

During the day cabinet ministers who helped welcome the King and Queen at Quebec, returned to their places in the treasury benches.

Application to Canada of the Army Act of Great Britain under a provision of the Canadian Militia Act was vigorously attacked by several opposition critics, who contended Canada's Act should be complete in itself.

His Majesty Signs Up Papers Making Roper U.S. Envoy

QUEBEC, May 19.—Signature of a submission conveying His Majesty's formal consent to the appointment of Hon. Daniel C. Roper as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Canada, was one of the first official duties performed by King George on his arrival here Wednesday.

The formal recommendation was submitted to the King by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who is Canada's secretary of state for external affairs. It was signed immediately by His Majesty.

Pioneer Dies

CALGARY, May 19.—Mrs. Wm. Grant Mackay, well-known Calgary woman, died here Thursday. She was a member of the Southern Alberta Oldtimers' Association, and former president of the Calgary Young Women's Christian Association.

They Play Various Roles At Ottawa

Playing parts of varying importance in the itinerary of the King and Queen while they are in Ottawa are these four natives of the capital, left and right, masters Kenneth Greene and Guy Cote, respectively, pages who will carry the Queen's train during the royal assent ceremony in the parliament buildings' Senate chamber. Top centre, is Dr. E. H. Coleman, under-secretary of state, who heads the inter-departmental committee in charge of arrangements for the royal tour. Bottom centre is Mrs. Barbara Jackson, cook at Government House, who will have charge of the meals at Rideau Hall during Their Majesties' stay.

Blue-and-Silver Royal Train Is Masterpiece Of Railway Craftsmanship

QUEBEC, May 19.—Their Majesties moved Thursday into the palace-on-wheels that will be their home and "official residence" for all but a few days during the next month while they make a two-way tour of Canada from coast-to-coast and a side trip to the United States.

From this morning, when the King and Queen ended a one-day visit to this ancient city on the rock, until June 15, when they sail from Halifax, the luxurious 12-car train will trace a history-making course across more than 6,000 miles of Canadian and United States territory.

DREAM TRAIN

Designed especially for the tour that no other British sovereign ever has taken, the blue-and-silver train is a masterpiece of railway craftsmanship. Every detail to provide for the comfort of the Royal passengers and their suite can be found within the "dream train's" tastefully-furnished interior.

The streamlined train contains private suites for Their Majesties and attendants, bath rooms with showers, a small Royal dining room with seating for 12 persons, a large dining car for the staff, lounges and kitchens equipped beyond the fondest dream of any housekeeper.

RADIO, TELEPHONE

Every car contains a radio and telephone. When the train stops, the main switchboard in the baggage room will be connected to land lines. From their suite, the King and Queen will be able to call their daughters in London, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

This will be Their Majesties first night aboard the train. They slept last night within the grey stone walls of the storied Citadel, after 11 nights aboard the liner Empress of Australia.

At only four points in Canada will the Royal party leave the train overnight. They are Ottawa, the Rocky Mountain resorts of Banff and Jasper, Alta., and Victoria, B.C.

Nearly 500 persons will see service as train crew. Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways crews will share the task of guiding Their Majesties safely across the country and back.

DISAPPOINTMENT FACES U. S. TOWNS OVER ROYAL VISIT

WASHINGTON, May 19—American communities still cherishing the hope that King George and Queen Elizabeth may find time to make them a side visit while in United States might just as well abandon it.

Not a spare minute is left for the Royal pair on the detailed program of their visit released today by the state department. Where they will go and what they will see has been worked out in such detail that it took the department nine closely-typed pages to list the itinerary.

And the minutes have been so carefully allotted that, to meet their engagements, the King and Queen will have to keep exactly to schedule from the time they cross the border at 10:35 p.m. E.D.T. June 7, until they leave Hyde Park, N.Y., at midnight, June 11, to return to Canada.

The committee which will go to the border to meet the Royal visitors will be headed by State Secretary Cordell Hull and Mrs. Hull, along with the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay.

Queen's Last Thought Is Of Her Children

QUEBEC, May 19. — Queen Elizabeth's last thought before disembarking on Wednesday was for the girls she left behind her—Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose. The Queen started down the gang plank and then stopped to give instructions about taking back to London some gifts she bought for her daughters in a shop aboard the Empress of Australia.

SOCIAL CREDITERS GETTING SCARCE ASSERTS SPEAKER

CALGARY, May 19.—A. E. McLellan, Social Credit member of the Alberta Legislative Assembly, told a gathering here last night "there is hardly a Social Credit group left in any rural constituency in Alberta."

Mr. McLellan and three other Social Credit M.L.A.'s, Charles Cockroft, Stettler, former Alberta treasurer; S. A. G. Barnes, Edmonton, and A. L. Blue, Ribstone, spoke to more than 300 persons at a meeting sponsored by the Alberta Independent Progressive group.

J. P. MacCaffery, Calgary barrister, chairman of the meeting, stated "There is a movement sweeping through this province which is destined to destroy and remove from office a virtual dictatorship in Alberta."

"The masses of the people are demanding more truth and more action," said Mr. Blue. "Speeches by political spellbinders will never solve our problems."

COMPULSORY MILITARY BILL PASSES HOUSE

Six Months' Training Is Provided In New Measure

LONDON, May 19.—The government's compulsory military service bill, under which all men of 20 years of age, with certain exceptions, will undergo six months training, received third reading in the House of Commons last night.

The vote was 337 to 130 with labor opposing the measure.

An amendment adopted before final passage exempted citizens of Canada and the other dominions, and the colonies from the bill's provisions provided they have been in Great Britain less than two years, or can show they are here for educational purposes.

Royal Show Short Scenes

TORONTO, May 19.—The King and Queen will tread on imported rugs worth $15,000 when they ascend the dais in front of the city hall to be welcomed here by Mayor Ralph Day Monday.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Raymond Massey, Toronto actor who has starred in New York this season, has been invited to attend the Hart House luncheon in Toronto Monday for King George and Queen Elizabeth. He will return here by plane in time for his evening performance.

VANCOUVER, May 19.—Bronze medallions, struck in honor of the visit of the King and Queen to Canada, have been completely sold out here. Officials at the post office where they were put up for sale said a fresh consignment has been ordered.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 19.—An official address to be presented to the King here June 6 contains one paragraph in French. It was included because a large percentage of the population in the district is of French descent.

TORONTO, May 19. — Mayor Ralph Day said today the King will have only one change of apparel during his Toronto visit Monday. When he detrains he will wear the uniform of an admiral and will change to morning coat, striped trousers and black silk hat.

Jasper in Readiness For Forthcoming Visit Of Their Majesties

JASPER PARK LODGE, May 19. — All is in readiness at this little mountain resort in the Canadian Rockies for the forthcoming visit of Their Majesties on June 1 and 2. The town will be in gala attire and the Royal visitors will be accorded a rousing welcome of loyalty from the residents.

Three miles from the station and situated on the shores of sparkling Lac Beauvert is Jasper Park Lodge where Their Majesties will enjoy a short rest from their official tour and their time will be absolutely their own to do as they wish whether it be to ride, stroll, motor, play tennis or golf. The famous outlook cabin which will be occupied by the King and Queen, has been completely reconditioned. The exterior of the cottage has been restained with cherry wood stain and oiled, and the windows and doors have been painted in a contrasting shade of Brunswick green.

INTERIOR RE-FINISHED

The woodwork in the interior of the cabin has been re-finished in natural wood finish, chinking between the logs on the inside has been done over in white. The bathrooms, of which there are five, have all been re-decorated in pastel shades. All of the furnishings in the living room, dining room and bedrooms have been re-done.

The silver, glass and chinaware is all in readiness. There are various sets of china, the gold service, one in limoges and an Italian tea service.

STRIKING APPEARANCE

The cabin presents a striking appearance with the large plate glass observation windows in the living room and dining room framing the glorious view of mountain and lake.

Numerous deer are around the cabin at all times. Rustic flower stands have been made from sturdied trunks of trees in the Pocahontas district and are in keeping with the general rustic surroundings. The ground surrounding the cabin will be set out with flowering plants. Special care has been given to the selection of these plants and among the ten thousand flowering plants, which will be set out before the arrival of the Royal party, will be many of the varieties which are known to be among the Queen's favorites. There will be an abundance of cut flowers of every description for the decoration of the interior of the cabins.

A new fifty foot flag pole has been erected outside outlook cabin which will carry the royal standard, while the King and Queen are in residence.

GERMAN REICH BEING SWEPT BY SPY SCARE

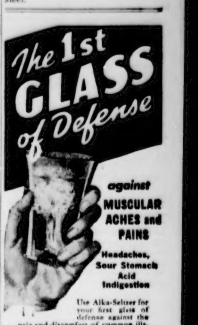

By GERAUD JOUVE

Copyright 1939 by Havas News Agency

BERLIN, May 19. — Germany is experiencing a countrywide "spy scare" similar to that which swept the Soviet Union and resulted in hundreds of executions during the last few years.

All the means at the disposal of the Reich's propaganda machinery have been called into play to warn German citizens to avoid contacts with strangers and foreigners.

One step in the propaganda campaign is the publicity given the execution of spies. The press, radio, movies and even the special placards posted throughout Germany are called into play to report the deaths of alleged "traitors".

Trees Instead of Guns

Down at Coutts, on the southern border of Alberta, and at Sweet Grass, just across the border in Montana, an interesting ceremony will take place on Saturday. Boy Scouts from Sweet Grass will cross the boundary and plant a tree at Coutts in recognition of the birthday of the King, and Scouts from the Alberta town will pay a return visit to plant a tree at Sweet Grass.

Similar ceremonies, it is announced, will take place at various points along the international boundary. So while boys in Europe are being trained to plant guns along international boundary lines, boys of these two countries will plant trees instead.

The significance is too plain to need stating. May the trees all grow, and may the neighborly feeling which prompts this interchange of courtesies grow with them. The Scouts may not think their tree-planting is important, other than as a pleasing incident in a day's outing. But it is something more than that. It is a demonstration to the world that where democratic countries border each other the boundary line does not have to be marked by anything more dangerous or costly than trees.

The Province Gives a Lead

If there has been any feeling at Ottawa that the province was trying to jockey the federal Government into paying an undue proportion of the cost of the Jasper highway, it should be removed by the announcement that another $100,000 of provincial money has been ear-marked for the road without any contingent contribution of federal funds. As the matter now stands $200,000 is to be spent on construction this year, of which the province is supplying $150,000 and the Dominion only $50,000.

Jasper park is a national, not a provincial, park. For expenditures within the park the Dominion is solely responsible. But it has been admitted also that the Dominion has a share of responsibility for making national parks available to tourists, and park-approach highways have been built, in Alberta and elsewhere, with substantial assistance from the national treasury. The proportion which the Dominion is contributing to the construction of the Jasper highway is not in keeping with the measure of this responsibility, nor with the measure of assistance that has been given to the construction of other park-approach highways. The province has given a good lead in allocating another $100,000 for the work, and the Dominion should play up to it by raising its contribution.

The White Paper

Most people will be sorry but not surprised at the new policy in Palestine that is to be followed by Britain. For some time it was clear that England was ready to bow to the Arab agitation. The only matter for surprise is that the surrender should be so complete and emphatic.

Almost the only bright spot in the new policy—already Zionists are speaking of the Dark Paper—is the stated intention of England to let 25,000 refugees into Palestine "as soon as the High Commissioner is ensured".

This means that only 50,000 other Jews can return to their unforgotten home in the shadow of Mount Scopus during the next five years. After that, the chapter closes, and the dream of having a national home in Palestine is replaced by the almost unpalatable substitute of being a small permanent minority in the Holy Land, dependent for life and liberty upon the goodwill of the Arab majority.

Violence by the Jews now in Palestine will solve nothing. There is no need of spilling blood to show the world that the White Paper is detested by them. What Zionism must now do is marshal all its forces of reason and arouse the conscience of the world so that the ultimate British decision may be more magnanimous and more just than that outlined in the White Paper. Churchill and Lloyd George, Amery and Lord Cecil, Sir Archibald Sinclair and Hugh Dalton, united despite their party differences in a common loyalty to Zionism, have yet to be heard in the great debate that must take place on the Chamberlain policy in Palestine. Maybe some concessions can still be obtained.

No matter what the decision, the splendor of the Zionist achievement can never be forgotten. A spot of sand in the vast Arabian desert has been turned, by Jewish sacrifice, into a fruitful land. Thanks to Zionism, the Arab now inherits a much richer land than the one he knew under the tyranny of the Turk or before the coming of the Jew to Palestine.

To What They Are "Anti"

Dr. Herman Ullman informs the readers of one of Herr Hitler's organs of misinformation that newspapers in Canada are "strongly anti-German". The accused papers are in no position to answer the charge, if there was any point in doing so, since the "jury" would never be allowed to read their submissions. They are, however, within the judgment of scores of thousands of German people who live in Canada, many of them of the third or fourth generation here, and may rest their case with the fair-minded section of this element in Canada's population—who perhaps will find means to present the facts to some of the Doctor's readers.

Canadian papers are undoubtedly strongly anti-aggression, anti-dictator, anti-everything that savors of the suppression of civil liberty and policies of force. They are not and never have been anti-German, or anti-people of any race. If they had been, Canada's population would not be the cosmopolitan blend it is, nor the relations between our divers racial groups so cordial as they are.

Canadian papers are not even anti-Hitler as regards the German people who live in Germany. So long as they prefer one-man government, or submit to it, that is their business exclusively. Only when the Fuehrer resorts to race tyranny, and by words and acts makes plain that he is a menace to other countries, are Canadian papers strongly anti-Hitler. And they do not even now admit that in his policies of Jew-torture and threat the Fuehrer represents the German people in Germany.

Forestry officials suspect incendiaries started forest fires in the Kinuso district. They are not likely to have made so serious an accusation without reason. A thorough-going investigation into the causes of fires all along the foothills would be in order. Not solely with a view to inflicting punishment on fire-starters, but also to get information upon which to base regulations to prevent these widespread outbreaks every time there is a long spell of dry weather. There must be some way by which the frontier settlers can be protected and still permit the burning of brush in order to clear land.

Current Comment

Canada's Fire Losses

From 1920 to 1937 Canada suffered from 727,987 fires, totalling property losses amounting to $677,711,000 and the destruction of 7,204 lives.

During this period, however, losses declined steadily from an average of $60,000,000 per annum to $22,700,000 in 1937. At the same time the average insurance rate for the Dominion progressively declined from $1.11 to only 69 cents in 1937, thereby saving to the public in insurance cost the sum of $367,395,000.

This decided improvement, stated A. Leslie Ham, of the Canadian Underwriters' Association, at the recent meeting in Winnipeg of the Canadian Fire marshals has been largely due to the unremitting attention given to fire prevention in recent years by fire fighting departments and by insurance underwriters, and to safety campaigns generally.

But our fire losses are still far higher than they ought to be. That is clearly demonstrated by the fact that Canada's per capita fire loss in 1938 was approximately $2.31, as compared with only about one dollar in Great Britain and Ireland, and even less in a number of European countries.

Prevention work through official channels will never do what it is intended to do until the Canadian public wakes up to the stupendous losses we suffer every year. Losses are always losses, and, as in practically every other field, the cost eventually is shouldered by the public.

There is a direct connection between fire losses and insurance rates. Losses govern rates. The sooner everyone realizes this simple economic fact, the easier it will be on our pocket-book.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Address of the Common People

By B. K. SANDWELL, Editor Saturday Night

Your Majesties:

We, the ordinary, common-or-garden people of Canada, desire to greet you. We desire to welcome you to our country—which is also your country because we are your people. We desire above all to assure you that we know, and are grateful that it is we and not the great and mighty of this land, whom you have come to visit.

True, we shall not be presented to you; our names—which are Jones and Macdonald and O'Higgins and Hebert and Johanssen and Schneider and Straus and Salvatore—will not be registered in the official diary of your tour nor on the tablets of your retentive royal memory. Nevertheless we are the people whom you are visiting now, and not the three hundred guests with whom you will dine at Rideau Hall or the five hundred at Hart House. These we know have been picked for you by the officials according to the rules of the game.

We are not jealous of them, for we know that you would much rather have dined with us—or, since there are rather too many of us, with a run-of-the-mine sample of us; say a farmer or two (yes, we are a bit sorry you are going to be absent on farmers, they are still the backbone of this country even if the backbone is a bit bent with shouldering the national debt), a printer's foreman, an automobile mechanic, a corner grocer, a telephone switchboard operator, a professor of swine husbandry, and the man who mends the breaks in the Niagara transmission cables.

We wish you could go for a night run with the chap who drives the fastest motor truck between London and Toronto. We wish you could share a lunch with the girl who does the secretarial work for old—of the—Manufacturing Company; you will meet him, but he won't tell you that he couldn't run the show without her assistance. We wish you could go to the bottom of the—Mine with Old Charlie, who has saved at least forty men from pretty certain death because he knows the tricks of the old hole-in-the-ground as a mother knows the tricks of her baby son. We wish you could take tea with the young wife of a young doctor up in the young Peace River country. We wish you could attend a meeting of one of the little Canadian Clubs, say in the Okanagan Valley. We think it would be nice if you could spend a day in the fire tower near the B.C.-Alberta boundary, and just look out over ten thousand square miles of mountain forest with not a mayor or a provincial minister or a telegraph operator—and scarcely a human being—nearer to you than twenty miles away. And we should have liked you to drop in for ten minutes at the meeting of the United Church Ladies' Aid Society of——, Sask.

We know that it was not possible that these things should be done, though we know also that you would have liked to have them done if it had been possible; but we think they would have helped you to do what you are coming to Canada for, namely to know and understand your Canadian people. What can they know of Canada, who only official Canada know?

And so, Your Majesties, for the next three weeks we resign you, not without our deepest sympathy, into the hands of official Canada, which will see to it that you meet only the Best People—some of whom are very good and some not so good, but all of whom can be relied upon not to drink out of the finger-bowls nor to slap you on the back and call you "Old Pal."

For ourselves, we shall be content to stand along your line of march and wave our little flags and cheer our little cheers—which collectively will make quite a good flag-waving and quite a noisy cheering—or even, if we are too far from your line of march, to wave our flags mentally and to cheer in imagination as we think of your passing by, it may be two or three hundred miles away, and yet nearer to us than any king and queen of Great Britain and of Canada have ever been before.

And one other thing, Your Majesties. We are emboldened to address you in these respectful but unconventional terms, because we believe that both by your short royal experience and by the long-developed instinct of the great families to which you each belong, you are not unskilled in reading beneath the official veneer to the solid timber of popular feeling that lies below it. We believe that the cheers and the flag-waving of us, the millions of the Canadian people who will line your path, will mean more to you than the conversation of the official dinner-parties and the resolutions, loyal and we trust grammatical, of the legislators and the aldermen, the bankers and the beef-barons and the boards of trade.

We are the people who will do the fighting for you when your Crown next needs to be defended by force of arms. We are the mothers who bring up the next generation of your Canadian people in love to your persons and loyalty to your throne. We are the men and women whose brain and brawn keep the life of this your Dominion going, so far as official Canada will let us.

We are the people you have come to visit. We welcome you to your own.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

It's a relief to turn from the ambitions and oratings of dictators, and glance at some of the permanent achievements made by other men in the pursuit of pure knowledge. In this recreation the dictators could with profit take part. An international group of physicists, headed by two former Nobel Prize winners,

POWER FROM THE ATOMS

Prof. Niels Bohr of Copenhagen and Prof. Enrico Fermi of Columbia University, have been studying the properties of actino uranium. That doesn't sound very thrilling, but wait!

They find that this isotrope or twin element of uranium can be split into two atomic bullets each of 100,000,000 volts energy each. That should interest the dictators seeking higher and better ways of destroying the human race.

Each of these atomic particles, when bombarded with a neutron carrying an energy of only one-fortieth of a volt, releases 8,000,000,000 times more energy than was originally put in. We are a big step nearer the predicted time when ocean liners will be able to cross the Atlantic on a fuel consumption of a piece of coal the size of a walnut. Even a Canadian banker should be satisfied with 800,000,000,000 per cent interest.

A new observatory has been opened on Mount Locke, near the border of Texas and Mexico. Leading astronomers from all over the continent gathered there for the occasion, including our own Dr. J. S. Plasket, director emeritus of the Astro-Physical Observatory outside Victoria,

NEW EYE ON THE UNIVERSE

B.C. Dr. Plaskett addressed the assembled scientists on the features of the new 82-inch telescope. It is next the largest telescope in the world, but is the most perfect of instruments to date. The largest is the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson, California. Both will soon be out-sized by the 200-inch telescope being built for Mount Palomar observatory in California. There will be need for all three great telescopes in carrying out astronomical research without duplication. The new 82-inch telescope at McDonald observatory will have a light-gathering power 150,000 times greater than the human eye. It will bring stars of magnitudes 20 and 21 within view.

Stars are classified by magnitudes, each 2½ times fainter than the preceding class. The utmost a good human eye can discern is Magnitude 6. It has taken four years to cast and grind the lens to a concave within one-millionth of perfection. What messages will funnel down from distant worlds into that minute spot of light in the centre of the lens! And the mind into which a thousand of our own could be dropped, will send light that can be analysed, giving new knowledge of the universe of which our solar system is a tiny part.

It would be a good thing if the dictators would go to these observatories for a few weeks study. Earthly ambitions would seem of small importance in a world reduced to the insignificance of a dust-speck on a window pane.

Language has been given to man, it is said, to enable him to conceal thoughts. But memories of blunt, outspoken thoughts expressed with deep fervour and the saltiness of the sea, "After the way of English, in straight-flung words and few," come with reading of an incident that happened a few days ago. The P. and O.

THE ADMIRAL'S SNIFF YACHT

liner "Comorin" lay at anchor in the roadstead off Tangier. Resplendent in gleaming paint and polish, the Admiral's barge from H.M.S. Warspite dashed forward to convey instructions of the Admiralty to the captain of the liner. Just as the smart craft reached the accommodation ladder, the garbage chute opened and a broadside of fish heads, potato peelings and decayed fruit were dumped into the cockpit of the barge. For once the "silent Navy" forgot itself, while deep sea language of burning sincerity filled the air.

A London barber, Maurice Childs, was one of the last men to see King George ere the King embarked on his voyage to Canada. His Majesty presented the barber with the Order of the British Empire. Not for hair-cutting, but for an act of prompt courage.

Mr. Childs was walking over Hammersmith bridge on the night of March 29, when he saw a man place a suitcase on a girder and apply a match to it. Childs ran back, and dumped the suitcase in the water. The bomb inside exploded as it reached the water. A second bomb on the other end of the bridge blew a gap that kept the span closed five weeks for repairs. Barbers boast of close shaves. This one richly deserved national recognition.

ONE RICH MAN'S WAY

I had an intimate glimpse, a few evenings ago, of one of our city's richest men, a financial power. I was permitted to see him, through the eyes of one in close relation with him, in his personal and home relationships. As a result, I have no desire to meet the man.

He has a great fortune, and he knows its power. So he goes blustering through the world, brow-beating everybody. His own family is terrorized by him. A self-made man, proud of the fact, he is offensively arrogant. In business he is "hard" and ruthless. The only reward he seems to get out of life is his sense of financial power. Nobody loves him for himself alone.

Of course, the sorry creature is to be pitied. Perhaps his greatest unhappiness is that he makes the rest of us, poor though we are in this world's goods, grateful for real life and for warm human relationships and for contentment.

Though dissatisfied with ourselves, we would be content with our lot, our Father, praying ever that Thou wouldst not withhold from us the real rewards of life. Amen.

Read Matthew 19:16-26.

Needn't Lose Sleep

Editor, Bulletin: Are the people of Edmonton getting so Hitlerized that a man dare not belong to a political party, just because he is a sportsman? If Mr. Page belonged to the same party as "Fair Play" and "Disgusted", he would be a great man. Evidently he does not, and that's why they are troubled. Last Saturday night's crowd must have convinced them that it didn't make much difference whether they were there or not.

Mr. Page is one of Edmonton's greatest, and doesn't need to lose any sleep over such poor critiques.

Needs Help

Editor Bulletin: I would like you to print this letter and let the people of Edmonton know what our city is doing to people on relief. About eight years ago my husband lost his work. Then we owned our own home, but we have had three children to put through school and quite a lot of sickness. When my husband would get a little work we would pay a few dollars on taxes, a few dollars on hospital and doctor's bills, but we never could catch up on the taxes. If we had not had our small home the city would have had to pay rent for us. But under the circumstances they have been relieved of that expense. Now the city has taken our home from us for back taxes. They tell me I shall have to get $100 to pay as a cash deposit and $6 a month rent, which will be applied on the taxes. My husband has got a small job right now which will last for about three months. Then it will be back again on relief. It has been like this for years. When he is working we have tried to pay on the taxes. What right has the city to take our home away? It isn't much, but it's home. If they put us out of here they will have to turn right around and provide us some place for us to live. Can someone help me to unravel this crazy puzzle, because I'm going around in circles. Hoping to hear from someone who can help us.

A MOTHER.

P.S.: Right now the city is making us pay $8 rent for our own home.

All eyes in Canada will today be focussed on Ottawa and a good many eyes will listen to the elaborate coverage on this day, as well as of the other days, of the Royal Visit to Canada. It will be a history-making day. Not only will the King of Canada and his consort receive the plaudits of the people as His Majesty unveils the great memorial to Canada's heroes of the world war, but for the first time in British history a sovereign will give his personal assent to bills passed by one of his parliaments. At Westminster the Royal assent is always given by commissioners.)

Prime Minister King has reserved for this occasion the bill ratifying the new trade agreement with the United States, so that His Majesty will personally figure in this demonstration to the world how two good neighbors live alongside each other in amity.

The presence of the King of Canada on Parliament Mill will bring to fruition the dream of Sir John A. Macdonald, who planned that the confederation should be styled the Kingdom of Canada and the sovereign the "Queen of Canada." But Lord Derby was afraid that this might offend the Yankees, and so the "kingdom" was changed to "dominion." Of course, it is only the passage of the Statute of Westminster that has made this possible, but it just shows how dreams of long ago can be made realities.

I do not suppose there are many people left in Ottawa who can recall the first Royal Visit, that of the Prince of Wales (later Edward VII) in 1860; there may be one or two; Chief Justice Latchford, who died not long ago, would have been one. There will be quite a few who will recall the visit of the King's father and mother as Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York in 1901; while there will be hundreds who remember just 20 years ago how the smiling Prince of Wales came and laid the foundation stone of the Peace Tower. These former days, which have figured large in Ottawa's history, will not have to take second place when the happenings of this week-end are entered in the record.

Ottawa may well be proud of itself today, and all Canada is proud of Ottawa, quite confident that its people will in their tributes to their sovereign and his lady be voicing the sentiments of all of us.

Visitor: "Dear me! Fancy your being called Robert Burns—why, that's a very well known name."

Native: "Nae doot it is; I've been blacksmith in the place for nigh on forty years."

"Then you had many bucketsfull do you carry off in a day?"

"Tin to fifteen, sor."

"Dear, dear. Now, how much water would you say you had carried since you started?"

"All the water you don't see there now, sor."

"Please, mum," said the tramp, "would ou be so kind as to let me have a needle and thread?"

"Well, y-e-s," said the housewife at the door, "I can let you have that."

"And could you oblige me with a small piece of stuff to patch my clothes?"

"Oh, yes, I think I can manage that. Will this do?"

"Thankee very much, mum. It's a little larger than I expected, but if you'll kindly furnish me with a square meal, perhaps I can fill it out."

Teacher: "Do we eat the flesh of the whale?"

Scholar: "Yes, ma'am."

Teacher: "And what do we do with the bones?"

Scholar: "We leave them on the side of our plate, miss."

The inquisitive traveller saw an Irishman on a river bank, and watched him hauling up water.

"How long have you been doing this?" asked the traveller.

"Tin years, sor."

"And how many bucketsfull do you carry off in a day?"

"Tin to fifteen, sor."

"Dear, dear. Now, how much water would you say you had carried since you started?"

"All the water you don't see there now, sor."

Waverly Council Asks For $3,000 Grant For Roads

At the monthly meeting of Waverly Municipal Council, which was held recently in the Municipal office in Erskine, a motion was carried that the Council ask for a grant of $3,000 for roads.

The Council voted to give the Salvation Army a grant of $75 for 1939. It was also decided that orders for forage seed would be accepted up until May 16th, and the secretary was instructed to order seed to meet orders to that date.

RIMBEY

Ellen Augusta Borg, 69, wife of Charles Borg, who farms east of Rimbey, and a resident of the district since 1915, died here recently. Before her marriage Mrs. Borg served as a waitress, cook, stewardess and matron over a period of 25 years on boats travelling the high seas. She was employed for several years by the Cunard lines.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Huston, of the United church here. Interment took place in the Mount Auburn cemetery.

CAMROSE

Erick Jhort was found guilty in court today by Magistrate Jones on two counts, one of intoxication and one for brandishing a knife. He was sentenced to thirty days at Fort Saskatchewan on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently. He will also receive expert medical attention and if found unbalanced he will be removed to an institution where he will be completely cured.

ROSALIND

A prominent figure in the business and civic life of Rosalind, and a staunch supporter of the Liberal part, James Kennedy, 77, died recently, following a lengthy illness. Surviving are his wife, five daughters, Mrs. Minnie Crossely of Edmonton, Miss Mary Kennedy and Mrs. Lina Trowbridge of San Francisco, and Mrs. Alice Rogers and Mrs. Edith Thompson, both of Los Angeles, one son, Ross, of Gibbons Landing, B.C., two brothers, Dr. R. Kennedy and Alex. Kennedy, both of Phoenix, Arizona.

BAWLF

A resident of the Heather Brae district for the past 40 years, Mrs. M. J. Lambert, 82, died here recently. Mrs. Lambert resided at Wetaskiwin for a few years before moving to the Heather Brae district. Interment took place in the Duhamel Romal Catholic cemetery.

Father Leemon, of Edmonton, will conduct services at Bawlf, Rosalind and Daysland during the absence of Monsignor Lyons, who is visiting in New York.

DRUMHELLER

BADLANDS OF DRUMHELLER TO BE TRANSFORMED

Preliminary survey of the Drumheller badlands with a view to developing a prehistoric park area will be made within the near future, Herbert Ingrey, M.L.A. for Drumheller constituency announced this week. Agitation for the development of a park has been under way by local residents for the past ten years but this is the first time that any government has shown interest in the project.

Proposed area needing protection stretches from Big Valley to Dorothy along the Red Deer river and it is in this area that some of the finest dinosaur skeletons have been unearthed. It is anticipated, however, that any development work will be confined for the present to a stretch between Morrin and Munson.

Last year Hon. H. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, visited the district and expressed himself as heartily in favor of the scheme. The preliminary survey, it is understood, has been authorized by the Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Creation of a new deanery within the Calgary diocese embracing eight parishes of the Roman Catholic Church was announced this week. Bishop Carroll elevating the Very Rev. Father Neville Anderson, priest of St. Anthony's church, Drumheller, to be the first Dean. Parishes incorporated include Drumheller, Rosedale, Rockyford, Munson, Strathmore, Cluny, Gleichen and Oyen.

Very Rev. Father Anderson, at the time secretary to Bishop Kidd, came to the parish of Drumheller four years ago and has been instrumental in having St. Angela's convent established here in addition to building a new church edifice which Bishop Carroll dedicated about six weeks ago.

City of Drumheller has a nice new woodpile ready for any transient who drops into the police department in search of a meal, only thing lacking at the moment being a saw, but when the deficiency was pointed out to councillors, Works Foreman A. J. Truss was instructed to buy a saw for that purpose, just in case.

But Chief Constable John Dunham holds out little hope for any activity around the woodpile which was organized three weeks ago. Only applicant to duly return for a meal was turned down. He was too drunk to saw wood, the chief reported.

PAINFUL TO BEND A JOINT

Hospital Case of Rheumatism

The value of perseverance with Kruschen, in the treatment of some cases of rheumatism, is proved by this man's experience. He says:—

"I was abroad for over seven years. When I returned I began to suffer from rheumatic pains—particularly in the feet and ankles, and I was eventually taken into hospital, unable to move without groaning with pain. When I left the hospital after two months I was somewhat better. I was recommended to take Kruschen Salts. I have taken them continuously, and until now I am entirely free from pains. I would not be without my Kruschen Salts for anything.—M.B.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are effectual solvents of uric acid the excess of which is decidedly injurious. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals—the cause of pain and suffering—and convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, May 21, 1939.

SUNDAY — Breakfast: Crisp ham; coddled eggs; Melba toast; stewed prunes. Lunch: Summer squash; baked ground beets; celery. Dinner: Baked chicken; spinach; string beans, lettuce and celery salad; Pineapple and marshmallow delight.

MONDAY — Breakfast: Fresh fruit, all desired. Glass of milk. Lunch: Combination vegetable salad; whole wheat bread and butter. Dinner: Salisbury steak; cooked celery; small green peas; salad of ripe olives, lettuce and tomatoes.

TUESDAY — Breakfast: poached eggs in cream served on Melba Toast; stewed figs. Lunch: Baked potato; carrots and parsley salad of lettuce, parsley and watercress. Dinner: Meat loaf; artichokes; salad of raw carrots; baked apple.

WEDNESDAY—Breakfast: Whole wheat muffins; stewed apricots. Lunch: Rice; cooked turnips; salad of olives, celery and lettuce. Dinner: Vegetable soup; boiled beef; string beans; salad of chopped celery, apples and carrots; gelatin.

THURSDAY—Breakfast: Whole wheat cereal with milk; stewed prunes. Lunch: Cooked corn; cooked greens; salad of cold sliced beets. Dinner: Boiled steak; carrots and peas; asparagus salad; pineapple.

FRIDAY — Breakfast: Crisp bacon, omelet; Melba Toast; stewed apricots. Lunch: Large combination salad of vegetables; cottage cheese. Dinner: Baked fish; cooked greens; summer squash; sliced tomatoes; gelatin.

SATURDAY — Glass of fruit juice 30 minutes before breakfast; Baked egg; co-toasted cereal and bitscuit; stewed prunes. Lunch: Potatoes, boiled or served with butter; string beans; salad of leafy green vegetables. Dinner: Tomato soup; roast beef; carrots; asparagus; celery salad.

Pineapple and Marshmallow Delight: Cut up 10 marshmallows into small pieces; add 1 small can of pineapple (shredded) with its juice; whip 1 pint of whipping cream until stiff and add to above mixture. Freeze. As a general rule the sweetness of the marshmallows will make the addition of sugar unnecessary. If the mixture is not quite sweet enough for your taste, add a small amount of sugar, or of honey.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fine Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language. A limited supply is on hand at The Bulletin. A copy will be mailed postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Just address The Bulletin.

Debunker

An old-wives' tale that is widely believed is the idea that a baby born at the eighth month is less likely to survive than one born at the seventh month. Doctors say this is all nonsense; that an eight-month baby is a month older, is stronger and more developed and is more likely to survive than the seven-month baby.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stools is usually due to piles and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemo-Rid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the pain and soreness and aids in healing the sores, tender spots. Hemo-Rid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

View Of St. Lawrence Valley From Mount Royal Delights King George And His Queen

MONTREAL, May 19.—Far from the pavement and free from the crushing throngs, King George and Queen Elizabeth stood together on the top of Mount Royal on Thursday to gain a view of the country in which Christianity first gained a foothold in North America.

The ride up the winding, wooded lanes brought a reward of tea, a respite from the cheering thousands—for the entire mountain was reserved for the Royal visitors—and a chance to see for miles across the broad St. Lawrence river and other rugged hills that gradually roll into the green mountains of Vermont. It was beautifully bright weather, with the view at its best.

Their Majesties stood in silent admiration as Mayor Camilien Houde motioned to the points of interest; told briefly of the early history. There was the majestic St. Lawrence from which Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, landed forty years ago to found the City of Montreal. Over to the right were the still-preserved martello towers built by the early Jesuits to protect little altars from the Indians.

For minutes the couple stood with the mayor, then turned into the chalet where 29 teen-aged daughters of aldermen and civic officials had been waiting to pour tea.

While awaiting Their Majesties, the youthful hostesses had been practising curtsies for an hour and sucking sugar lumps to relieve their nervousness. Then they stood at the inside of the chalet windows chattering, in French, their first impressions of the Queen.

TEA IS SERVED

"Quelle est chic," they exclaimed delightedly and then discussed with great admiration the perfect pose and carriage of the Queen as she walked gracefully to the wall overlooking the city, her pastel blue crepe ensemble rippling in the breeze.

White fur tiered effect topped the lapels of the short-sleeved long coat of the Queen's dress, and the bodice of the dress was softly draped and she wore three strands of pearls and pearl drop earrings. A wristlet of pale blue beads perfectly matched her outfit elbow length white gloves and her blue and pale grey shoes were the accessories.

The Queen's hat, in slightly mandarin fedora style with brim off the sides of her face, was trimmed with matching flowers tied around the crown with blue ribbon.

Wearing garden tea frocks of pastel-shaded cottons lace and organdy, decorated with bows and puffed sleeves of short coatees, the servitors kept clear the pathway of Their Majesties' curtseying as they passed along to the end of the room where a small table, centred by a simple white vase of bouvardia and white antique needlepoint chairs were arranged.

Madeleine Marthe and Claire Houde, daughters of the Mayor, —Joy Armstrong, daughter of the general officer commanding of the Montreal division, Josette Vallancourt, daughter of the secretary of the Royal Commission and Andre Joyce, grand-daughter of A. B. Wood, chairman of the Royal Committee, were selected to look after the needs of the King and Queen.

PRESENTATIONS

Banquet tables, covered with Madeira linen cloths and centred with iris, roses and pink snapdragons, were laden with hot cheese and asparagus rolls and dainty sandwiches, thin bread and butter, iced small cakes and the Queen's cake, a two-layered white cake iced with cocoanut and decorated with Union Jacks and flags.

Following tea, the servitors and Mrs. E. De B. Panet, wife of Brigadier Panet, Mrs. Royal Gagnon, wife of the Montreal superintendent of the R.C.M.P., were presented in turn to Their Majesties. One white-frocked girl shook slightly as she made her deep curtsy and the Queen held her hand firmly and spoke to her for a moment to put the girl at ease.

Alicia Hart Offers Neat "Finger Tips"

Bulletin Patterns

By ALICIA HART

"It has been said that pointed fingertips denote an impulsive nature, but they're the envy of every woman who doesn't own them," says a famous nail lacquer expert.

"However, if your fingertips are pointed, it's a mistake to file your nails to sharp, saw-like points. Sharply pointed nails are no longer considered chic, anyway, but chic or no, they are not for fingers which are naturally pointed. So let the shape of your nails be almond-like and don't forget to wipe your polish off the tip of each one."

She went on to discuss spatulate fingertips, generally thought to denote practical capability.

"Such fingertips are broad and unless the nails are shaped correctly, the hands will seem too short, too chunky-looking. If nails are filed reasonably short at sides, with the center portions left long but not pointed, the fingers will appear to be longer and more slender than they actually are. Polish ought to be started at the edge of the moon and carried downward the full length of the nail with only a hairline at the tip removed."

The nail of a conic fingertip—not too pointed, and alleged to signify creative artistic temperament—should be filed into an oval shape with the faintest suggestion of a point. Polish ought to extend from moon to tip with only a line (hair width) removed.

The best way to make sure that your nails are the correct shape and your polish the right shade is to do a little experimenting.

Dorothy Dix Says:

The old pattern of marriage, wherein the man went out and got the bacon and the woman stayed at home and fried it, and neither one meddled with the other's business, seems to be the best solution of the domestic problem after all. For, strangely enough, nothing else in the world arouses such bitter jealousy as for a married couple to be rivals in their professions. Many a marriage that has survived platinum blonde and soulful-eyed preachers and handsome doctors is wrecked on the husband's biscuit and the wife's salesmanship.

Nearly every woman who is successful in business or profession has been divorced a time or two, not because of her failings as a wife, but because her husband couldn't stand for her to make more money than he did, or be more prominent. The deadliest insult you can offer any man is to call him Mr. Mamie Jones. The only compliment a husband ever relishes about his wife is when you praise her looks, or her clothes, or her cooking.

And women get equally green-eyed when their husbands step out of their sacred masculine sphere, as is abundantly proved by the fact that, although they are always complaining about their never helping with the children, or taking any interest in fixing up the home, or lending a hand with the cooking, the minute Gunga Din shows he can run a house better than the Mrs. she is at his throat like a tigress.

In marriage the shoemaker should stick to his last and husbands and wives get along best together when they do not interfere with each other's jobs. The wife that every man wants is a competent housekeeper, not a financial wizard. The husband that every woman desires is not a chef, but a man who will eat what is set before him and ask no questions.

DOROTHY DIX.

Here's Bridal Cake Of Beauty And Simplicity

A glistening Bride's Cake with tinted cocoanut fringe and a silver wedding bell in the centre. It is so simple to make that any moderately skillful home cook can be sure to win hearty congratulations on this contribution to the wedding feast.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Many mothers beg for a recipe for a beautiful but simple Bride's Cake which they can both bake and decorate themselves.

Here is a glistening and delicious answer, created especially for the glamorous occasion. If she follows the recipe, the cook herself will also be in line for congratulations.

SIMPLE BRIDAL CAKE

Three cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons combination baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup butter or other shortening, 1¾ cups sugar, 5 egg whites unbeaten, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, one at a time, beating very thoroughly after each. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla.

Bake in greased 15x9x2 inch pan in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes, or until done. Spread with boiled frosting on top and sides of cake. Cut model bell out of wax paper, outlining on cake with tooth pick. Remove paper pattern and fill in outline with silver dragees. Decorate sides with white or tinted cocoanut.

BOILED FROSTING

Three cups sugar, 1 teaspoon light corn syrup, 1 1-3 cups boiling water, 4 egg white, stiffly beaten, 2 teaspoons vanilla.

Combine sugar, corn syrup, and water. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly, without stirring, until small amount of syrup forms a soft ball in cold water, or spins a long thread when dropped from tip of spoon (240 deg. F.). Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly.

Add vanilla. Continue beating with rotary egg beater 10 to 15 minutes, or until frosting is cool and of right consistency to spread. Use wooden spoon when too stiff for beater. Makes enough frosting

Raising A Family

O. R. Barton

Mr. Wright was on his way home when he saw Terry playing ball in the lot behind the church. He stopped his car and watched the game. Terry didn't see his father. He was at bat. He hit a hard one and the fellows on bases all came home.

"That was a honey," smiled his proud parent. "I never knew the kid could handle a stick like that."

Later on, at home, Mr. Wright said to Mother:

"I'm glad you had the faucet in the garage fixed. I always forget it."

"Terry fixed it," she said.

"Where did you learn to do plumbing, son?"

"Me! I don't know. I just fixed it. Got a washer and that's all. I put a new panel in the window, too."

"YOU did?"

"Yep. It saved you a buck, mebbe. I'll take it out of my allowance."

For several days, Mr. Wright let the boy alone. He was amused and proud of this kid he didn't seem to know before.

Then he forgot and he gave Terry a good talking to one evening about how he wouldn't come to meals on time and skipped errands. "You worry your mother to death, and I can't have that," he said. And each evening there seemed to be something or other that had to be mentioned. "A gentleman keeps his hair out of his eyes." "Come back and close that door over again." "The grass isn't half cut."

On Saturday he took Terry fishing. Terry knew where to go. He had the bait, too. In fact, it was Terry who had hinted his dad fishing, but he didn't let on.

Terry got a bass, a trout and a couple of chub. His father got some minnie bites.

Mr. Wright misjudged the distance between the garage doors and bent a fender. Terry quit and said nonchalantly, "Mack can fix it like new. It's only a scratch." He didn't cheep to his mother.

His father now remembered a lot of things. "I think I'll just let

According To Culbertson

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Knowing how keenly you and your readers enjoy a well played hand, I submit the following. It was played by a friend of mine and I was just an on-looker. My breath was so completely taken away that I almost forgot to kibitz:

"North, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.
"Rubber bridge.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Double	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
7 spades	Pass	Redouble	Pass
Pass

"East's double of three diamonds was not good, as it later helped declarer in the play. His double of seven spades was still worse, as it might have forced South to seven no trump which would have been cold and which, incidentally, my friend admits he should have bid, but then there would have been no hand to write about!

"West opened the diamond five, and declarer won with the queen. He then led to dummy's king of trumps and discovered the bad break. Realizing the hand could be made only by couping East's trumps, declarer led dummy's remaining trump. East, of course, played the nine and South's jack won. The ace of diamonds was cashed and then the club queen was led and overtaken in dummy. Two more rounds of diamonds followed, South discarding his losing hearts, entirely confident that East, who had doubled diamonds, would have to follow suit. Then a small club was led and ruffed, declarer thus reducing himself to the A Q 8 of trumps, the same trump length as East now held. South now led to dummy's heart ace and returned the club king. When East discarded his last diamond declarer let go his good heart king. A club then was led from dummy and East's ten of trumps could not escape capture.

"The crucial play was the lead of a small club from dummy after cashing the two high diamonds. This won a safety play to insure against East's having only one club and two hearts. If the club king had first been led, East, with one club would have discarded a heart and so would South, but on another club lead from dummy East would discard his second heart or, if dummy's heart ace was played, there would later be no other entry to dummy which would let declarer coup East's ten of trumps. By ruffing a small club South guarded against this possibility because now, if East had only the one club and threw off a heart, dummy would be entered with the heart ace and the club king led. If East ruffs, South overruffs and draws trump, then cashes the heart king, whereas if East discards his diamond South discards the heart king and another club lead effects the coup.

This hand was beautifully played, in that declarer took shrewd advantage of the information given him by East's bad doubles. The second of plays involving coups is timing; that is, tricks must be cashed in precisely the right order. Otherwise the defender who is being couped can get rid of cards and prevent declarer from returning to the dummy. My correspondent's analysis is so full that there is nothing I need add except my usual warning on the subject of all-revealing penalty doubles: that have very little to gain and a tremendous amount to lose. On the bidding for even on poker bidding from North-South's East had no earthly excuse for hopping that he could defeat three diamonds, hence his first double was absurd. When the North-South partnership eventually reached seven spades there was sound reason for hoping that the contract could be defeated, but surely it could not be slaughtered if North-South knew even approximately what they were doing. And since East could neither be positive of defeating seven spades, nor would wish the opponents to run to seven no trump, his double was indefensible. I am strongly inclined to feel that South should have bid seven no trump after the double, but as has already been pointed out, then there would have been no hand to write about.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

What To Do

When a boy insists on telling a girl about his many other girl friends, what can you say to show you aren't interested, without seeming to appear rude? MARGARET.

Answer—What a lot of brushing up his manners need! He's trying to make an impression, of course, when he'd really just "building himself up to an awful letdown," as one of the song hits puts it. Who wants to hear about all the other girls in his life! If he were smart he'd centre all his attention on the girl he's with, making her feel that she's the most interesting and attractive girl to him. So you can either appear bored or avoid making dates with him in the future. You might even express surprise that any one so much in demand has any time available in which you would be interested.

WHEAT PRICES SLIP SLIGHTLY

WINNIPEG, May 19.—Wheat futures prices slipped off in the closing stages at Winnipeg today following the appearance of scattered liquidation, apparently due to reports of rain in the Alberta wheat belt. After holding steady throughout the day, final quotations were ¼-⅜ cent lower, with May 64⅛, July 65⅛-¼ and October 66⅜b cents.

Broomhall

The weather in North America was more favorable with rains reported yesterday in many sections. A few sections are naturally sending in damage reports but a reliable miller in Central Kansas informed us yesterday that wheat was holding its own in most of the important areas. The forecast is for clear weather today and Saturday in most of the southwest but there is still plenty of time for further good rains to help fill the wheat next month. The international price level is still controlled by the Argentine selling policy. After holding off for a longer period than usual, being afraid of pressing wheat on an already glutted market, this country is now selling freely and exported 3,866,000 bushels this week despite the holiday. The balance remaining is now figured to be 172,000,000 bushels.

Commandant Accompanies His Majesty

Smiling, dignified, and at the same time as informal as the occasion would allow, the King, attired in the full dress uniform of an admiral of the navy, strides beside Col. Percy Brown, commandant of the citadel in Quebec, following the debarkation of Their Majesties at Quebec, starting point of their triumphant tour of the Dominion. Behind the King, who chatted with Col. Flynn, is Capt. Poirier, M.M., captain of the royal guard wearing a huge bearskin busby, and beside him one of the equerries accompanying Their Majesties on the tour.

OIL SHIPPERS WILL SAVE ON PIPELINE RATES

CALGARY, May 19. — When recommendations of the McGillivray royal commission on pipeline transportation rates become effective, oil shippers and producers will save approximately $730,000 a year, it is estimated here.

Shippers of Turner Valley crude oil from Calgary will benefit by $540,000 a year, based on calculated loadings of 3,000,000,000 barrels annually.

The commission recommended the transportation rate for moving crude through Royalite Oil Company's pipelines be reduced from 15 cents a barrel to 9½ cents and that the loading rate be reduced from five cents a barrel to 2½ cents.

SAVE $175,000

Purchasers of Turner Valley crude oil, not shipping oil, but receiving oil from the Calgary terminus of the pipeline, will save $175,000 a year on a basis of 3,000,000 barrels of oil purchased, according to figures available.

In addition, Turner Valley crude producing companies will save approximately $15,000 a year by virtue of the recommendation of the commission that the pipeline charge made to cover losses on oil transported from Turner Valley to Calgary be reduced from one per cent to three-quarters of one per cent.

STREET FIGHT LAYS LOW 100 IN JERUSALEM

Police and Jewish Youths Engage In Bitter Struggles

JERUSALEM, May 19.—More than 100 casualties were suffered last night in fighting in the streets of Jerusalem between police and Jewish youth demonstrating against Great Britain's new policy of an independent Palestine.

At least 100 Jewish youths, most of them between the ages of 10 and 16, were wounded. At least two policemen were injured severely by revolver shots.

After the Jews had made an orderly demonstration march through the central streets of the city, some 5,000 Jewish youths assembled in the early afternoon in front of the District Commissioner's office to carry out their protest against Britain's policy. Booing police and throwing stones, they drew a baton charge by police.

For three hours the battle continued without a let up. Then police got the upper hand. By 9.30 p.m. more than 100 Jewish injured had been counted. Many of the injuries were serious.

Edmonton Area Wheat Seeding Is Near Completion

WINNIPEG, May 19.—Weather has been cool and windy over Manitoba and Saskatchewan during the past week with only scattered showers reported, says the Canadian National railway report. Frost from light to twelve degrees occurred at a number of points, setting back grain temporarily. In Alberta weather has been warm and windy with only occasional light showers.

Wheat seeding is practically completed in the Edmonton division with early sown grain up three inches. From 20 per cent to 50 per cent of the coarse grains are sown. Moisture conditions are reported satisfactory.

Soil drifting and grasshoppers hatching are reported. On the N.A.R. Edmonton and Lac La Biche subdivisions, seeding is almost finished with early wheat above ground at many points. On the Grande Prairie, Smoky and Peace River subdivisions wheat is growing rapidly, light showers having improved conditions but heavy rains would be beneficial. Forty per cent of wheat is now seeded in Calgary district.

NEW PROPOSAL POWER SUPPLY MADE TO CITY

Voluntary Exchange Of Energy Features Company's Plan

Calgary Power Company, Limited at a meeting with the city power committee Thursday evening made a new offer of a mutual standby agreement coupled with voluntary exchange of power between the city's steam plant and the company's hydro plant.

G. H. Thompson, manager of the company, withdrew his first offer of an agreement under which the city would undertake to buy one-third of its power requirements from the company and would supply the company in the winter season.

The committee, on a motion by Ald. George Campbell, voted to ask the company to submit a detailed memorandum of the proposal it outlined Thursday night. Commissioners and Power Supt. R. G. Watson were asked to study the company's new offer and prepare an analytical report for the next meeting of the committee, to be convened at the call of the chair.

The company, represented by C. H. Thompson, manager and G. A. Gaherty, president, proposed that an inter-connection be entered into through which the city would pay $30,000 a year as its share of the cost

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you think that government planning of careers for college graduates should be taken up as a government policy?

In the United States a movement is on foot to have the government make a survey twice yearly to determine what business or professional offer the best careers to graduates.

The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter decided to make some inquiries on this question today, and here are some of the answers:

HAROLD SIMPSON, returned soldier: I think such a survey would be a most valuable activity. Each year over the Dominion thousands of young men and women are turned out into the business and professional world and only a small percentage, according to reports, are able to step into an opportunity. In view of the money expended and frequently the sacrifices made in obtaining the education, it certainly would be a great help to have such a survey as suggested made. It would put the young people into the economic life of the country quicker and make conditions generally much better.

FRANK THOMAS, student: I think that planning of careers is a science in which government action is needed. Governments are taking leadership in many other activities these days, and here is one that touches the life of a country very closely. In the interests of the individual as well as the country as a whole, it would be beneficial to have such a survey made as it would enable the young people to be more quickly placed in economic life and therefore in production. As a student looking forward to taking my place in the world I support such an idea of a government survey.

CYRIL HORROBIN, Canadian Press: It looks like a good idea to me. Through such a planning scheme, much information would be gathered that would be of inestimable value not only in placing young people, but on the country's economic position as a whole. The information gathered in such a survey could be supplied to freshmen classes in various colleges and serve as a guide to their intelligent choice of a calling.

ELWOOD CARR, businessman: I feel that the suggestion of government planning of careers is a good one. Each year thousands of young people enter college and choose a course of training according to their natures. At the end of four years they try to get into business, using their diploma as as battering rams. Tragically, the field they choose is often overcrowded. The planning scheme suggested would circumvent many of the difficulties now encountered.

M'KINNON WILL BE HONORED AT CITY MEETING

Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines will honor James A. MacKinnon, minister without portfolio and M.P. for West Edmonton, on May 29 or 30 at a public meeting arranged in recognition of the services he has rendered to this city and northern Alberta by his work at Ottawa.

The two organizations invited Mr. MacKinnon to be guest speaker at such a meeting while he will be in the city awaiting the arrival of Their Majesties in Edmonton from the Pacific coast.

It has not yet been decided whether the testimonial dinner will take the form of a luncheon or banquet, and on which the two suggested dates it will be held.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR EYES

By Jackson Bros. Optometrist

Every one knows the importance of keeping a machine in order. The human eye is a miraculously acute mechanism which cannot be repaired when run down. Who can replace the missing parts, or start a minute muscle in motion when Nature has released her hand.

When we think of the great dependence placed upon our eyes, and the great work they perform in accomplishing our life ambitions, the least we can do is look after them, by relieving them of any strain due to eye defects. Over ninety-five per cent of eye defects can be corrected by the proper use of glasses, or through muscular treatments.

Have our Registered Optometrist give your eyes a thorough eyesight examination. This is positively the only means whereby you can ascertain the true value of your eyes. He will tell you if you need glasses.

Visit our Eyesight Clinic which is open to you every day except Sundays and Holidays. These clinics have proven to be very popular. Each patient is given our personal and undivided attention, and no glasses are sold to any one person unless they really need them.

If you need glasses you can have the use of them while paying for them by using our well established easy pay plan in weekly or monthly payments.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT

One should never harbor an ugly thought for an instant. If you have an idea of harming someone, better harm him right away.

If another person plays a dirty trick on you, forgive him. That'll throw him off his guard, and you can play him a dirtier trick.

In the long run, however, kindness pays. Unfortunately, so many of us are very short-winded.

Put Yourself Across Speaking

In Public

Here Are Helps To Confidence

Young Bob Smith is making his way to the top in club and town affairs—in business, too—since he learned public speaking!

As a guest of the club he's addressing. Bob knows it's correct form to begin his speech, "Mr. Chairman, hosts and friends—." Correct also for him to reply to the chairman's welcome with, "It's impossible to express my appreciation of the warm reception you have given me."

Confidently you can address all types of audiences—in clubs and business—when you learn the art of public speaking.

No danger of fumbling, repeating yourself, if you prepare for your talk by first jotting down the main ideas in logical order.

Is your voice clear, do you enunciate distinctly? Read aloud, pronounce every syllable—"gov-ern-ment," not "government." Effective to use gestures if you keep them few and spontaneous.

Make yourself felt in club work on the job, by knowing how to speak effectively! Our 32-page booklet tells how to train your voice, prepare talks. Gives sample speeches for many occasions, parliamentary forms, rules for toastmasters and radio speakers.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Public Speaking Self-Taught" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service Department, Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of Booklet.

Mr. Mitchell was re-elected to his fourth term as secretary of the chapter. William C. Bruce was named president.

Alfred Higgins of Calgary, president of the Alberta Chapter during the past year, conducted the meeting which took the form of a banquet followed by a half-hour of entertainment by Major Dick Merrett and his Legionnaires and a business meeting.

JAPAN'S TRADE SUFFERING FROM IMPORT CONTROL

Imports into Japan are now subject to a system of exchange control that has a restrictive effect upon the total volume of trade, P. V. McLane, Canadian trade commissioner at Kobe, Japan, said here Friday.

Japan, under the rigorous war conditions that now prevail, is importing mainly goods intended for the army and raw materials, he said.

Permits have to be obtained before goods can be allowed into the country, he explained.

Reduction in exports from Alberta to Japan has taken place, he said. While here, Mr. McLane will see T. Ashenhurst, of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and business men interested in trade with the Orient. He leaves Friday night for Winnipeg.

Through The Mill

Only one case was concluded in city police court Friday as the court went through a session of adjourning.

Charge of assault against an Edmonton man was withdrawn, with costs to be paid by the complainant. The complainant was a woman who charged that the accused had struck her on the face.

On a recent Sunday a woman in a rooming house was packing her belongings preparatory to moving out when a man and his wife, the rooming-house keepers, happened along. From there on the versions of the proceedings vary somewhat.

The about-to-move-outer, giving evidence in police court, asserted that the man and wife had given her a strenuous session of bumping and bruising, but the accused pair, charged with assault, denied it, stating they "didn't even lay a hand on her."

"This case becomes a matter of credibility of witnesses," said the court, "and I am accepting the story of the complainant."

Each accused was fined $3 and costs.

On Thursday a motorist was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving after a cyclist was knocked from his machine on a city street and taken to hospital suffering from injuries. In police court Friday the accused man was granted an adjournment to May 28.

Butcher By-Law To Be Revised Committee Says

Delegation of city butchers appeared before the civic bylaws committee to ask that all vendors of cooked meats be classed as butchers and required to close their shops at 6 p.m.

The committee asked City Solicitor T. E. Garside, John Suss, butchers' representative and P. E. Bowen, operator of a departmentalized food store, to meet and attempt to draw up a suitable bylaw for submission to Monday night's council meeting.

The committee also voted to recommend to council that in future sale of dogs on the city market be prohibited.

Mountain Highway

A determined drive to finish the Jasper-Banff highway and open the road to tourist traffic was launched Thursday as workmen went to work on both ends of the uncompleted 24-mile portion of the 189-mile highway. Some 300 men are expected to be on the job by the end of the week.

In Two Languages The King Expresses Anticipation

An historic moment for Canada is recorded by the camera as King George, the first British monarch to ever tread the soil of one of his dominions, makes his first speech in Canada, delivered at a luncheon in Quebec's Chateau Frontenac, and, much to the delight of Canada's many French-Canadians, made partly in French. On the King's left in this picture are the Queen and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, while at his right, sits Cardinal Villeneuve, of Quebec. Their Majesties, although neither ate much during this, their first meal in Canada, were completely at ease and laughed and smiled during the formal affair.

NEW PROPOSAL POWER SUPPLY MADE TO CITY

of carrying charges on the 200-mile transmission line for 10 years.

This would save the city an expenditure of $730,000 for new installations which would otherwise be necessary in 1941 and 1942. The city's next saving, if no power were bought or traded, would be $430,000.

Increasing power demands in any case would necessitate expenditure of $730,000 in 1940 for extensions and, if the city made these, the company would be willing to pay the city $30,000 as its share of the carrying charges on this equipment in an extended inter-connection agreement.

Either party would be bound to assist the other in the case of a breakdown at any time.

Mr. Thompson said the company was in the same position as the city in its new installation requirements. Each must be able to carry its peak load with a 15,000-kilowatt generator out of commission. In an inter-connection, one reserve generator would be sufficient standby between the two.

OPTIONAL FEATURES

Optional features of which the city might avail itself would be the right to buy surplus hydro power at a cost per K.W.H. of 1/1000 of the average price per ton of coal during the previous year.

For each K.W.H. bought by the city the company would deliver at least one additional K.W.H. which the city could return in the winter by supplying two kilowatts for each three received. The city would supply this in the peak season but in off-peak hours.

Should the city desire to interchange energy for the purpose of reducing the winter peak load on its plant, it may do so upon paying the company $2 per year per kilowatt of such reduction.

The optional features, Mr. Thompson said, would provide savings to the city additional to those on the mutual inter-connection.

OPPOSES

When the meeting opened Ald. Hugh John Macdonald said he would oppose any agreement by which the city would be obliged to buy or exchange power. This proposal later was withdrawn by the company.

"It is in the interests of the city to develop its plant to carry its own load at all times," Ald. Macdonald said. "The plant has reached a high state of efficiency and I wish to compliment Mr. Watson on this. Our utilities give us a profit of more than a million dollars a year and the power plant is the backbone of the utilities."

Commissioner R. J. Gibb said that one favorable aspect of the new proposal was that it would not cut into the city plant's coal consumption.

"Should our negotiations break down," Mr. Thompson said, "the Calgary Power company would not wish to be placed in the position of having it said that its proposal was not fair to the city.

PAY HALF

"Should the city wish to engage an independent engineer to analyze our plan, the company would be willing to pay half the expense and the engineer would be chosen by the city. If he should find that our proposal was not favorable to the city, we would pay the full cost of his services."

Outstanding Royal Edition Of Bulletin

Unique in every way, is the special supplement of The Edmonton Bulletin which is being prepared to mark the visit of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, to Edmonton.

Timed for publication on the day of their arrival in Edmonton, Friday, June 2nd, The Bulletin's Royal Edition, will be distributed along with the regular issue of the newspaper, which will be made up of three sections.

A feature of the edition will be an exclusive full-page photograph of Their Majesties on front cover. The section will also contain unpublished portrait and action shots of the Royal Family purchased by The Bulletin for this particular issue.

Special writers will contribute colorful news stories covering the Royal Party's tour of Canada prior to arrival in Edmonton, many of which will be accompanied by pictures.

An outstanding "highlight" of this Edition will be the many messages of welcome to the Royal couple from the manufacturers of "Made-in-Alberta" products.

Due to the historic nature of the occasion, The Bulletin anticipates an extra heavy demand for this special issue, which will be treasured for years to come, and suggests that residents of Central and Northern Alberta, who are not regular readers of this newspaper, should arrange to reserve their copies well in advance. Address your order for extra copies to The Edmonton Bulletin, Circulation Department, Jasper Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

HEAVIEST RAIN WHOLE SEASON RECORDED HERE

Rumbling thunder and a few flashes of sheet lightning Thursday night failed to bring a repetition of the severe electrical storms which occurred the two previous nights. Nature's threats, however, were followed by the heaviest rain of the season as sudden clouds dumped .92 inches of rain over the city.

A total of .28 inches of precipitation Thursday brought the 24-hour total up to 1.18 inches as measured by instruments at the Highlands weather station. Airport total for the same period was 1.45 inches.

Weather was showing some signs of clearing Friday morning as clouds began to part and allow the sun to peak through for brief intervals.

Official forecast for Edmonton contained no promise of further rain, predicting fair and cool weather for Friday.

Heavy rains fell over most sections of the near north overnight. It was still raining at Fort St. John, Notikewin, Athabasca, Peace River and Calling River early Friday. Hudson Hope had a fourth of winter as snow began to fall when the temperatures slid to 33 above at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

LIBERALS PICK 400 DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Close to 400 delegates and the same number of alternates were chosen Thursday night at primaries held in East Edmonton by the Liberal Association. They will attend the Liberal nominating convention in Memorial Hall Monday at 8 p.m. to choose a candidate to contest the riding in the federal election.

Party officials Friday still were tabulating returns from the 40 primaries held Thursday, and announced that 411 delegates, together with the same number of alternates, were to be chosen.

Only candidate who has already announced his intention to let his name go before the convention is Ald. F. C. Casselman.

A. B. McLennan, immediate past president of the association and former M.L.A., also has been rumored as a candidate, but he has declined to lend any credence to these reports.

Candidate in the by-election in East Edmonton, when he increased the former Liberal vote by an impressive margin, R. C. Marshall, prominent Edmonton citizen, has already announced that variety and urgency of other duties preclude him from again being a candidate.

Libraries Will Close At 12:30 For Royal Visit

Edmonton Public Library Board at a meeting Thursday voted to close the two public libraries at 12:30 p.m. on June 2, so that all employees might see Their Majesties on their visit to the city.

The board also received a ruling from the city solicitor that it had not the power to pay any additional superannuation to E. L. Hill, former librarian, who retired three years ago. Members voted to take no action on an application made by Mr. Hill.

Aged Man Goes To Prison For Indecency Act

Convicted on a charge of committing an act of gross indecency, an 81-year-old man, Philip Duval, was sentenced to serve two years less one day in Fort Saskatchewan jail by Mr. Justice Shepherd in Supreme Court, criminal division, Thursday.

The aged man's plea that he be permitted his freedom to go and live with a niece who has offered to keep him was refused by the judge who remarked that it would be most unfair to "impose the case of a man like you upon anybody."

TWO-YEAR-OLD RESCUED FROM 50-FOOT WELL

Lowering himself into a 50-foot well that contained 20 feet of water, Leslie Meadowcraft, 21-year-old youth residing about a mile east of Athabaska, saved the life of the two-year-old son of Henry Shulte, farmer in the Athabaska district and neighbor of Mr. Meadowcraft. The Shulte child fell into the well while his father was drawing water. The accident took place just east of Athabaska.

Ballooning of the child's clothing with air saved his life as Mr. Shulte raced to the Meadowcraft farm, half-a-mile away, for a rope. Leslie returned with Mr. Schulte, descended into the well and found the child still floating on top of the water due in air in his clothing. The child was brought to the surface with the aid of a pail.

The child escaped with minor injuries to the face.

Campus Quiet As Students Leave; Some Have Jobs

Campus of the University of Alberta is unnaturally quiet these days as the hustle and bustle of University life has suddenly stopped following Convocation exercises here Tuesday, when 471 students graduated.

Many mining and engineering graduates have jobs with northern mining camps where they are employed as geologists and assistant engineers on construction or prospecting crews. Other students will spend the summer studying for the supplemental examinations to be held in September.

BIG DEAL SENDS SCHRINER TO LEAFS

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Fistic Progress Let Them In Data For Cubs

AS the thousand and one details incidental to the battle between Tiger Warrington and Eddie Wenstob here on the night of June 1 for the dominion heavyweight and light-heavy titles are completed, you get a chance to look back over the progress that boxing has made in Edmonton during the last two and half years. When the fight game was dying in every other Canadian city except Toronto, it pulled one foot out of the grave here and staged a recovery that has won Edmonton the name of being only second to Toronto in fistic activity.

Montreal, Vancouver and Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, were all bidding for the official dominion heavy and light-heavyweight clash between Warrington and Wenstob. The fact that Edmonton was able to make a more attractive offer is rather impressive evidence of the interest here.

Eddie Wenstob is of course the major reason that the big battle comes here. Edmonton isn't his home town, but it is his home city. Regardless of the chatter you hear in the sport spots around town, Eddie still has thousands of supporters in this area—especially when he is the west's standard bearer against the champion of the east. That old east-west rivalry has an irresistable way of getting under your skin.

However, there are two other reasons why Canada's biggest title fight in many years is coming here. One of these is that Promoter Fred Osborne has battled steadily to keep the game alive here, taking a financial wallop on the chin more often than not, but hoping that sooner or later he'd get a payoff. With these regular cards to provide a start, the Edmonton Boxing Commission was able to organize the Western Canada Boxing Federation and give the fight game the control and supervision it was so badly in need of.

Without the federation and its help, Wenstob would never have been in a position to win the officially accepted lightheavy and heavyweight championships of western Canada. The federation provided the machinery for the elimination and proper ranking of various contenders from Winnipeg to Vancouver and awarded titles that are now recognized by the National Boxing Association and the British Board of Boxing Control.

With the ticket sale for June 1 now underway, the demand for duests is proving all that was expected. The feature so far has been the number of large blocks that are being booked by various groups, businesses and organizations. The Arena's capacity for the fight will be around the 6,000 mark. The ring will be raised nearly four feet in the centre of the ice area. Approximately 1,000 seats will be provided on this area.

Why Not Stock Model Races?

FEW cities in Canada have more or better bike racers than Edmonton, but one young enthusiastic pedaler-owner raises a point that those in charge of auto meets here might well give some thought to. He wants to know if it is not possible to have more events provided for stock model machines. He points out that he wants to race, but that he simply can't afford to buy a racing machine. Nevertheless, meet provided a chance to compare the times made. Stock models made 19 miles an hour, while racing models did 21 miles an hour. These speeds are computed from the winner's time in various events.

There are undoubtedly scores of bike fans here who are unable to afford racing machines, but that fact shouldn't bar them from competition. It should be very simple to include several events for stock models in every racing program and give every boy a chance.

Cubs Start Baseball Research

THE boys who delve into scientific problems and come up with the solution will tell you that before you can solve a problem you have to collect all the data that you can on it. Owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs isn't satisfied with the care if improvement his major league players are making, so he has set about solving the problem in the accepted scientific manner. He thinks it is taking youngsters altogether too long to reach major league calibre.

C. L. Snyder has been put in charge of gathering data. At present he is compiling statistics on the Cubs themselves. He charts every pitch now in every game, the kind of pitcher each batter swings at, habits and movements of each player throughout the game, number of fouls, number of flies and the exact spot where singles, doubles, triples and home runs went and so on. When this chore is all rolled down, it will be mighty useful data for any Cub or would-be Cub. When football gets underway, Snyder will study the teaching methods used in that sport and try to work out a coaching system that will speed up the development of major league calibre baseball players.

Wile Claims Esks Will Win Major Share of Games

EDMONTON sportsmen gathered last night at the Shasta Cafe and the Sports Booster Club held one of its most successful rallies to date as a large membership planned football and hockey campaigns and topped the evening off with a pleasant social.

Last night's rally was an enthusiastic gathering of sportsmen and, with the spring football training now in progress, the gridiron fever is rapidly taking hold among Edmonton's sport fraternity.

Russ Wile, Eskimo's starry new import from Minnesota University, was introduced to the large gathering while Coach Bob Fitz gave the attendance a rousing pep talk.

LIKES THE COUNTRY

Wile, an exceptionally robust looking gridder stated, "it took me a long time to get up into Canada, but now that I am here I like your country and I am certain that Edmonton Eskimos will win many more games than they will lose."

And Wile sounded as if he meant that as a threat to Winnipeg's Bombers, Regina's Roughriders and Calgary's bucking Broncos.

President Nick MacPhee was chairman of last night's rally and Nick helped out greatly by Art Carlson, whose singing was not exactly divine, was indeed loud enough.

Chairman of the membership committee reported a successful drive to date for Booster members

DETROIT BUYS CECIL DILLON

DETROIT, May 19. — Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League announced Thursday the purchase of Cecil Dillon, veteran forward of New York Rangers. Dillon has long been one of the game's highest scorers and Adams expects he will add considerable strength to his squad.

and reported a possible greater year in this respect than last season.

Earlier in the evening, a big turnout of fans watched the Eskimos go through their training drill at Clarke Stadium. The crowds have been getting bigger nightly at the practices and last night the enthusiasts saw Wile in uniform for the first time.

Coach Fritz split the squad into three sections, taking charge of the handfielders himself, Russ Wile looked the linemen over and Hank O'Brien handled the line executioners.

The team works out each night at 6:30 o'clock and all fans are invited to attend.

Warrington Unlimbers His Big Guns in Workout

NEW YORK, May 19.—Terry Warrington unlimbered his big guns Thursday as he went into the last stages of training for defence of his claim to the Canadian light-heavy and heavyweight boxing titles against Eddie Wenstob at Edmonton June 1.

In a vicious three-round workout at Stillman's gym the Liverpool, N. S., Negro manhandled a 205-pound French importation, Henri Weber. Earlier, Warrington stepped through two stanzas of fast boxing with Abe Feldman, Western New Yorker.

Against the Frenchman, the tan Tiger, who scales 178, worked a fast left and right cross with enough effect to have the Gaul retire behind his elbows half the time.

Manager Bobby North said after the workout that the Tiger would taper off his work here between now and Monday, when he leaves for Edmonton.

The Negro said after the workout he "knew nothing about Wenstob" but heard he was "pretty rugged."

"If he's a boxer I'll box him and if he's a fighter I'll fight him. I can do both," said the Nova Scotian.

YUGOSLAVS WIN FROM ENGLAND

BELGRADE, May 19.—Playing in sweltering heat, Yugoslavia defeated England 2-1 in an International soccer match yesterday. Forty thousand spectators saw the contest—the second of the English team's continental tour which winds up next week in Rumania.

Toronto Trades Four Men for Winger

TORONTO, May 19.—Vern deGeer, sports editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, in a newspage story today says that Dave Schriner, left wing star for New York Americans in the National Hockey League, will come to Toronto Maple Leafs next winter, in one of the biggest player deals engineered in major professional hockey in recent years.

The article says Harvey Jackson, Buzz Boll, Jimmy Fowler and Doc Romnes, members of the Leafs last year, will go to the A's in return for Schriner, N.H.L. scoring champion in 1935-36 and 1936-37.

Schriner, 26-year-old product of Calgary amateur hockey, for years has been ranked with the smartest lest wingers in the game. He turned professional with Syracuse Stars of the old International League in 1932-33.

OUTSTANDING ROOKIE

He joined Americans during the 1934-35 season and was voted the N.H.L.'s outstanding rookie. The following year he was voted to the left wing position on the Canadian Press all-star team, being named on the alternate team in the same poll in 1936-37.

Of the Leafs involved, Jackson and Romnes are the most prominent. Romnes, a centre, came to Toronto last year from Chicago Black Hawks, in a trade for Bill Thoms. Jackson has been the ace left winger with Leafs since the heyday of the famous "kid" line on which he worked with Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau.

BOLL FAST SKATER

Boll was injured early last season and saw little action. A left-handed shot, he plays either left or right wing, and is considered among the fastest skaters in the league. Fowler, a utility with Leafs last campaign, plays either defence or forward.

MARTY BURKE IS NEW COACH CALGARY CLUB

Former Saskatoon Hockey Coach Accepts Terms With Stampeders

CALGARY, May 19.—Marty Burke, for 13 years a major leaguer with Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks and coach of Saskatoon Quakers last winter, has signed to coach Calgary Stampeders of the Alberta Senior Hockey League.

Following a telephone conversation Thursday, J. B. Croke, president of the Stampeders club, announced Burke had signed.

It will be several months before the new mentor of the Stampeders heads west. Business will keep him in the east until July or possibly later.

In the meantime, on Coach Burke's recommendation, a pair of hunky defencemen had established residence in Calgary, just in the nick of time for east-west transfers. They are Chuck Millman of Stratford, and Roy Swanson of Hamilton.

Believe It Or Not — By Robt. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

BELIEVE IT OR NOT OAK: The State Highway Department of Michigan has officially designated the strange oak growth on Route No. 2, near Union City, Mich., as the Believe It Or Not Oak. The site will be made a public monument, with a shelter house, fireplace and other conveniences for tourists and picnickers. The odd growth was formed by a perfect graf; of two white oak trees that still are growing. Natives state the Indians bent a small tree into the other so as to make access to the large tree easier. The two trees have grown together in a perfect graft.

"FAREWELL to SPORT" by PAUL GALLICO

What Colored Fighters Buck

THE Negro's greatest temptation has always been the prize ring, with its quick, rich rewards (ostensibly) in exchange for a little pain and punishment. The black man has always shown great aptitude for boxing. He is generally a magnificent physical specimen, powerful, wiry, hard, and not nearly so sensible to pain as his white brother. He has a thick, hard skull, and good hands. He is crafty and tricky and, contrary to public opinion, as game as the white man when the cards are not stacked against him. But in eight out of ten cases when he enters the ring, the dice are loaded. He has agreed either to lose or to "carry" his white opponent and refrain from knocking him out; in the graphic language of the ring, he is handcuffed. Or if he is fighting without the manacles he must be far out in front to get the decision from the officials unless his manager has the right connections.

Our philosophy here is curiously akin to that of the modern German. We differ merely in our method. The Nazi declares: "The Negro is an Untermensch. We will not permit him to compete against the members of the Aryan race because he might win, and then we should not feel good." The American sportsman says: "The Negro is inferior to the white man. We will let him fight white men because it seems to amuse white audiences, but we won't let him win."

Fight managers lose practically every last vestige of decency when dealing with Negro fighters. The Negro is regarded as pure cattle to be exploited, swindled, and burgled for their own profits and never, if possible, for his. He is after all only a nigger, and so the ordinary rules of conduct applied to white fighters, which are in themselves none too sweet, don't go. He wouldn't know what to do with his money if he had any; therefore it is considered foolhardy to give him any if it can be prevented.

MISGUIDED FOOL

The Negro of course is a poor, misguided fool ever to go into the profession of prizefighting, because except in the rarest of instances the rich rewards are not for him, and from the point of view of sportsmanship and a square shake, he is whipped before ever the bell rings. The whole thing boils down simply enough to a question of showmanship. It is pleasing and entertaining to a fight audience consisting mainly of white sportsmen and women to see a white man beat a Negro, punch him around the ring, cut him, bloody him, knock him down, and knock him out. The stricken Negro fighter rolls his eyes in a funny way; he looks and acts like a monkey. It is considered a prime rally to yell: "Throw him a coconut," when one enters the ring. He makes funny faces when he is hurt, and when he is losing makes an excellent foil for a white hero.

It is disgusting to a white fight audience to see a white man punch-drunk and groveling before a Negro, or flopping about the canvas like a gaffed fish from the effects of a punch, or absorbing a cruel and systematic beating. Ergo, in the past the smart promoter has avoided presenting such spectacles.

THE LOUIS CASE

Joe Louis has enjoyed an extraordinary vogue, and the rules that have applied to the general run of Negro fighters have not been invoked in his case for several reasons. One is that he appeared at just the right time, when the public was sick and tired of the clowns, fakes, phonies, and misfits they had been looking at in the guise of white champions. And another is that he was exceptionally well managed and handled by a hard and capable crowd of people of his own race, a lawyer, an ex-numbers man, and an ex-convict, an outfit just as tough as some of the gangsters who have been acting as impresarios for some of the white valiants, if not tougher.

Louis is what is known definitely as a "good nigger who knows his place." He has been carefully trained in the sly servility that the white man accepts as his due and he really had an exquisite skill at his trade and a thrilling efficiency. Schmeling or no Schmeling, he once was so good that it was an artistic pleasure to watch him work. Following hard on the heels of the Sharkeys, Baers, Carneras, Levinskys, et all, he gave the fight audiences something for their money—action and results. He had mastered the magic of destruction.

The economic principle as it has been expounded to the darky in the past and as it will be expounded to him again is very simple and can be understood even by a primitive child of the bush. It is, briefly, as follows: "You want to eat, don't you? And you can't eat unless you fight. And you can't get a fight with a good white man, one that will draw any money for your end, unless you agree to lay down or carry him. They don't want to see you win. They want to see you lose."

The African is an obliging fellow and, above all, he wants to eat and maybe even acquire a shiny car. He is always hoping for a break even though he rarely gets it. The success of Joe Louis will result in a perfect rash of colored fighters. The market will be glutted with them, the public will get sick of seeing them, and they will be right back where they started from.

PITCHER WARNED AGAINST SPITTER

NEW YORK, May 19. — Ford Frick, National League president, Thursday warned Fred Frankhouse, right-hand hurler of Boston Bees, that he will be suspended for 10 days if he again "Tampers" with a ball he is pitching.

Umpire Beans Reardon found Frankhouse trying to use a "spitter," an outlawed delivery in organized ball, in a game at Cincinnati Wednesday.

Eire, Hungary Tie

BUDAPEST, May 19.—Eire and Hungary drew 2-2 in an international soccer match played here Thursday. The Hungarians led 1-0 at halftime.

Pat O'Dowdy Confident He Can Pin Dizzy Davis

WRESTLING tonight at the Memorial Hall will be packed with action from start to finish.

Pat O'Dowdy will have a chance to show fans that he can beat Dandy Dizzy Davis when he meets him on even terms in the main event of the card. O'Dowdy claims that he was too tired from the eliminations when he met Davis in the finals of the tournament, and will do much better this time.

A newcomer, Nick Schmeling, will show his wares for the first time in Edmonton, when he meets Soldier Thomas for 45 minutes in the semi-windup.

This Schmeling is a cousin of Max Schmeling, the heavyweight boxer. He comes here with a good reputation as a fast and clever wrestler, and should show plenty of class.

The show starts at 8:45.

Vic Ripley Seeks Berth in U.S. Open

SPOKANE, Wash., May 19.—Vic Ripley, former National Hockey League player who made his home at Calgary until recently, will be among three professionals and three amateurs seeking the two northwest qualifying spots in the 1939 United States open golf championship Monday.

Trail Boys Honored

TRAIL, B.C., May 19.—An illuminated scroll will remind each member of the Trail Smoke Eaters, world amateur hockey champions of this city's pride in their accomplishment.

The Smoke Eaters received the scrolls from James Buchanan, general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

NEW YORK VOTES ON PARI-MUTUELS

ALBANY, N.Y., May 19.—Ending a long battle over the worth of pari-mutuel wagering compared with the bookmaking system, the New York State House of Assembly approved Thursday 77 to 69, a measure calling for a popular vote on a constitutional amendment legalizing pari-mutuel betting. It will appear on the ballot in the fall elections.

Hopes Held For Peaceful End To Nazi-Polish Row

BERLIN, May 19.—A conciliatory gesture from Warsaw gave rise to hope in Berlin last night that the long quarrel between Poland and Germany might be adjusted by peaceful negotiation.

Hope for ending the dispute over Germany's demand for return of the free city of Danzig and a right-of-way across Pomerania (the Polish corridor) was based on the comment of the official Gazeta Polska that a "reasonable settlement" should be possible.

Officials examined the Polish statement with interest but remarked that Warsaw's conciliatory words were not backed up with substantial suggestions of what a "reasonable settlement" would be.

They HAVE to be Good!
THIS is a highly competitive age, as everyone knows! Keeping this fact constantly in mind, the makers of UDL Liquors realize that their products can only attain public acceptance if they can compete, in actual VALUE, with liquors produced elsewhere.
Fortunately, we in Vancouver have "what it takes". We are, in fact, particularly well favored in the availability of the basic ingredients needed in the distilling of really fine gins. Besides having access to the choicest berries, herbs and roots, we have right at our back door an unlimited supply of pure, non-alkaline mountain water, the finest in the world for distilling purposes.
To you in Alberta we say "Try UDL SILVER FIZZ Gin, not only because it is produced in the West, but because it compares favorably when compared with any London Dry Gin made anywhere!"

DATE WITH DANGER

By HELEN WORDEN

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MARY FRANKLIN, society editor.
DUKE DARRINGTON, night club gangster.
JANICE FRENCH, society deb.
JIM SHIRLEY, playboy.

Yesterday: Police tell Duke about dragging the body of Janice French from the river. Duke burns her pictures. Mary recalls there are other rich girls in New York!

CHAPTER VIII

MARY, Ladd and Fenelon left the morgue knowing a crime had been committed. Instead of Janice French was dead, there was no evidence to connect Duke Marlin or Nick Hart with her suicide.

"The only thing to do now," said Ladd, is to soft peddle this Martin and Nick will think the whole affair is forgotten. Meanwhile we can build up evidence against them."

He spoke irritably. Sleep was heavy upon him.

The commissioner pressed his hand to his temples. "I will call this girl's mother and father. They are heartbroken."

"You can use the phone in the office, Commissioner," said Ryan.

Ladd stared reflectively at Mary. "You're coming back with me and write this story."

Mary nodded. A vision of Janice's mother and father rose before her eyes, aristocrats who lived a cotton-batting existence, who would shut away in a great Fifth Avenue mansion, from the realities of the world.

How much did they know? Would they be willing to face notoriety? Mary shivered.

Once the Frenches heard of Janice's death they would never discuss her again. Mary knew they wouldn't come to the inquest. They would send Thomas Robinson, their lawyer, instead. The funeral would be private. This, as far as the world was concerned, would end the story of Janice French.

Ladd's voice jolted Mary's thoughts. "Come," he said. "I'll phone you from the office, Commissioner."

There was an indolent hum in the editorial offices of the Gazette as Mary walked in. She had left Ladd in the hall. The hurly-burly and fever of fictional newspaper was missing. Here, on New York's biggest paper, a city, a nation and a world were being covered with gravity and precision.

The editorial offices were the antithesis of the mad, helter-skelter movie version of the crowded, toLacco-smoke filled city room in which copy paper covers the floor, reporters sit with feet on desk and hats pulled down over their eyes, an editor bawls everybody out and copy boys run like police.

The Gazette city room was large and airy. Sound-proofed ceilings gave it the quiet of a library.

The Society section lay directly back of the Wall Street department. But neither staff was down at the other's throat. Over in Minister shift, the skelton staff that came on at midnight and left when the last edition went to press, was there to assemble early news.

Crosbie, his lanky body telescoped like a jack-knife, sat at the main desk, editing copy. Pecking away at nearby typewriters were reporters who had been assigned stories. Like most of them, Crosbie wore a green celluloid eyeshade and from behind the ear protruded the stub of a yellow pencil. His soft shirt was open at the throat and a nonscript vest flapped about his lean body. He glanced up as Mary came toward him.

"Pix of the Janice French story from the suicide angle," he said. "Play down the night club slant and don't mention the Duke. We're waiting for the copy," he added.

Tired as she was, Mary smiled. Crosbie was always waiting for copy. Like Grantland Rice, Heywood Legree, he nagged his staff forever into producing more copy.

It was also characteristic of him that he asked nothing about the night's happenings. Shut up in the office of the city editor, he seemed to know more than the reporters who had been covering the story. When he appeared at the Cheri Petite, Philips, Dora, Comm.; Phillips, Doris, suddenly surprise them by a question that revealed the crux of the whole situation.

Dawn was breaking as Mary sat down at her desk. She fitted a fresh copy paper into the typewriter, lit a cigaret and began tapping the typewriter keys.

The body of the girl, in the pink chiffon dress which was brought into the morgue late last night has been identified as Janice French of 902 Fifth Avenue. Police Commissioner Arthur Fenelon believes it a suicide case. An inquest will be held . . . Miss French, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John French, made her debut in . . .

Rolling the final sheet out of the machine, Mary called "Copy!" in another clear voice and leaned back in her chair.

Ladd had gone to his office when he left Mary in the hall. Now, as Mary called for the copy boy, he stuck his head out the door.

"Let me see what you've written before you hand it in."

She walked across to his office, the typewritten sheets in her hands.

One or two of the reporters looked up as she passed, their inquiring expressions changing to appreciative stares. In spite of lack of sleep, over-excitement and the strain on her emotions, she was more than pretty. Her evening gown sloped provocatively off her shoulders, and as she walked, her feet, in delicate gold sandals showed gracefully from beneath the hem of her gown. Ladd's eyes, like those of the men in the outer room, brightened as he saw her. "You can certainly take it," he said.

"I'm running on nerves."

While she talked, he was studying her copy, pencilling it occasionally. As he leaned on the desk, his angular form bent down the better to read the piece. Mary's dark eyes, off guard for the moment, rested affectionately on him. There had never been any sign of intimacy between this hard-boiled editor and herself and, so far as Ladd had known, it had always been NEWS that concerned him when he was with her, but this morning for the first time Mary allowed herself to wonder about her boss. Though he had never paid her any particular attention, he was not at all bad looking. Now and then in the past he had stopped at her department to ask some question and once a week or so he had sat across from him at the inter-office meetings but this acquaintance had never gone further. Odd how years between them seemed on a new footing.

She dropped her eyes suddenly as he looked up and saw her flush mounted her cheeks. She was being absurdly romantic. Idiot!

"Okay," he said, handing back the copy. "What about something to eat before you take that week's sleep. Ever try the Plaza for breakfast?"

"In this dress?" glancing at her evening gown.

"Why not? It won't be the first time anyone has breakfast at the Plaza in evening clothes. I'll meet you in the lobby in ten."

Mary picked up a test copy of the Gazette on her way out. There was her story with a one-column head on it and her by-line beneath. She was glad Crosbie had played the whole thing down. She wanted the girl to be believed and had decided to soft-pedal the affair. That was the line she intended to take with him—no one raking up dead bones—forget the whole thing.

"I've decided not to sleep for a week," she announced to Ladd as she climbed into a taxi with him. "I'm going back to the Dove again tonight."

Ladd looked at her sharply. "You're up against a couple of killers. I don't think you can handle them alone."

"I'm willing to take my chance."

FIRST BAPTIST HAS SURPLUS REPORT SHOWS

Charter Members Of Church Honored At Annual Meeting

First Baptist church met all financial obligations and covered the full mission budget during the past year and finished the year with a small surplus, according to a report submitted by Treasurer T. R. Edwards at the annual meeting of the church Wednesday.

Church membership totals 938. Miss Florence Atkinson, church clerk, reported. J. H. Pavey, speaking for the deacons' board, informed the meeting that Dr. George A. Clarke would occupy the pulpit for the month of July.

OTHER REPORTS

Those submitting reports were the Ladies' Aid, Mission Circle, Young Married Women's Auxiliary, Laura Allyn Auxiliary, and the Four-in-One club. The building and grounds committee under the chairmanship of John Hampton, reported numerous improvements.

During the evening the congregation honored three of the charter members who were present at the organization meeting of the church in 1892, namely, Mrs. J. H. Kemp, C. B. Beals and Mr. Van Buskirk.

OFFICERS

Following is the slate of officers elected to carry on the work of the church:

250 MEMBERS ATTEND MEET LEGION HERE

About 250 members attended the general monthly meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. with President W. R. McLaren presiding. He urged all ex-servicemen to turn out on June 3 to assist in the patrol for the Royal Procession.

The financial condition of the branch was reported as excellent with many major improvements being undertaken in both the interior and exterior of the building and additional improvements being made to the grounds.

The meeting discussed resolutions to be presented to the provincial convention of the Legion to be held in Edmonton from May 31 to June 2.

Reports of the various committees were given, and S. Bowcott reported that 18 new members had joined the branch, bringing the total membership to 803.

William "Paddy" Griffin reported that the visiting committee had visited all hospitals in the city and that six blood transfusions had been given by members of the branch.

Today's Popular Design

Design No. 4030

Artistically Canadian and made entirely of large cross stitching, this easy-to-work wall hanging and matching pillow will be evidence in your home of the pride of country that will be rampant when Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth come to Canada and when the memorable trip is over, the lovely colors and appropriate design will, for all time, recall the cherished spirit of good-will, patriotism, and loyalty to our Sovereigns.

Pattern includes transfer of design, stitch and color chart with complete embroidery instructions.

Send 15 cents in coins for this pattern to The Edmonton Bulletin, Needlework Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

Not Missing Anything

Many and varied will have been the methods employed by hundreds of thousands of Canadian citizens in their attempts to get a good view of the King and Queen during their tour, and this little fellow in Quebec was using one of the favorites, as, supported by his mother, he holds a pair of field glasses to his eyes, presses a flag to his side with one arm, and gazes in awe at the sight so many now have seen and so many more wait to see.

Gigantic Montreal Crowd Calls King, Queen From Dinner

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, May 19.—As though from a dream, Montreal awakened today. The city still wore its dress of gala decorations. But gone were the King and Queen. And the picturesque events of the previous day and night seemed unreal.

It didn't seem actual that more than 100,000 persons jammed into Dominion Square last night and watched King George and Queen Elizabeth salute and wave from a little balcony of the Windsor hotel.

But it was true. Their Majesties, even though tired after a train trip from Quebec and a four-hour motor procession through the streets of Montreal, twice appeared on the low-railed gallery, the King in evening clothes, and the Queen in a silvery white evening gown.

SHOW LOYALTY

And Montreal never before had heard such response from a crowd which could only show its loyalty and appreciation by cheering all the louder. It was the insistent chanting of "we want the King" that made the royal couple leave a sumptuous banquet and acknowledge the thunderous ovation.

The applause was not confined to any particular spot along the 23-mile route followed by the Royal procession after arrival of Their Majesties from Quebec yesterday afternoon. It started from the time they alighted from the train when more than 100,000 persons set up a rousing cheer that brought repeated response from both the King and Queen. And it continued until they left Windsor station last night for Ottawa.

Even after the Royal train, its puffing drowned by the crowd's farewell, slipped swiftly out of the station, it was met by rows and rows of men, women and children who lined crossings, backyards and galleries overlooking the railway tracks. They maintained a prolonged farewell until the train was beyond the city limits.

But it was the gracious act of Their Majesties in leaving their unfinished dinner that climaxed the day for the crowd. Some of them had stood on the spacious lawns of the square since early morning. All day they waited for the King and Queen to arrive at the hotel for a civic banquet. It was eight p.m. before they reached the hotel, and they went immediately to the balcony. The crowd waited for more than an hour and a half, until their shouting had reached a steady, rythmic chant: "We want the King."

RETURNED TO BALCONY

Finally, the King and Queen rose from the table, and returned to the balcony, bowing and smiling continually until they stepped back inside a few moments later to take coffee in another room.

The crowd continued to roar. "We Want the King." "We Want the Queen." "God Save the King." Even after the royal couple drove in their car a short block to the station, and disappeared from view, the shouting continued. Inside, others joined in the cheering.

GUARD OF HONOR

In the brilliantly-decorated station concourse, a guard of honor was formed by members of the Montreal division of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and the Royal Canadian Air Force. Their Majesties stood at attention as the band played "God Save the King."

After meeting Sir Edward Beatty, president of Canadian Pacific Railway, and some of his directors, the King and Queen, accompanied by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and their retinue, were escorted to the train, destined for a secret siding so Their Majesties might sleep before continuing to Ottawa.

Their departure brought to a close a nine-hour stay during which Their Majesties toured the city, appeared before some 60,000 school children in two stadia; received an official welcome to the city from Mayor Camillien Houde, who sat beside the Queen at the civic banquet. The Queen wore than once was seen to chuckle during the animated conversations of the mayor.

At the city hall they signed a new golden book, met members of the Montreal city council and got behind by a few minutes in their official schedule. They were 15 minutes overdue before they returned to the station to rest and dress for the elaborate dinner given by the city.

BRIEF PRIVACY

Prior to the dinner, the Royal party had tea at the citadel on top of Mount Royal where they gained brief privacy from the crowds. But they ate heartily at dinner time. Neither accepted the soup course and the Queen took no fish. Both chicken, peas, potatoes appeared to enjoy the squab chicken and the balance of the menu which included five wines and liquers.

CONSERVATIVES TO HOLD CONVENTION IN CITY JUNE 7

Date of the convention of the West Edmonton Federal Conservative Association was definitely set for the Masonic Temple on June 7 at an executive meeting held Thursday evening. A nominating committee to interview prospective candidates for the riding and a credential committee to check the credentials of delegates to the convention were also selected.

R. D. Tighe, K.C., president of the association, was chairman of the meeting. It was announced that M. A. Macpherson, K.C., of Regina, runner-up to Dr. Manion for the Dominion leadership of the party at the Ottawa convention, would be present to speak at the convention.

It is expected the Conservatives from the East Edmonton riding will attend the West Edmonton convention in an unofficial capacity to hear Mr. Macpherson, and will hold their own nominating convention some time shortly after the West Edmonton convention.

Several names have already been spoken of as prospective candidates to carry the Conservative colors in the West Edmonton riding, but no definite choice will be made until the nominating committee reports.

RAINFALL EASES STRENUOUS TASK OF FIREFIGHTERS

Rains which fell at all provincial forestry lookout stations on Thursday night greatly eased, but did not end the hazard, T. F. Blefgen, provincial foresatry director stated on Friday.

"We did not have a great deal of rain, but there was some, which enabled the fire-fighters to get in close to the remaining flames and battle them from close range," he said.

"In addition, no new fires have been reported, which is a great help."

Mr. Blefgen stated that in the Fort Assiniboine area the fires had been dampened right down and the men had got to grips with the fires in the area which was the greatest hazard at present.

The rest of the afflicted areas had light rains and the weather remains dark and cloudy with promise of more rain.

A one-hour downpour at Lovat aided materially and while the precipitation there was heavy as in this city at any point, it was sufficient to help materially.

The danger is not yet over officials state, but "promise of the end is bright with more rain in the offing.
